'Black Power' Is Linked To Political Strength

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A leader of the new "black power" faction within the civil rights movement defines the term as political strength interwoven with an attempt to build stronger racial pride among Negroes.

"We just want to get the white people off our backs. That's all we want," said Stokely Carmichael, national chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and a leading advocate of "black power."

Carmichael, 25, who has been SNCC chairman nearly two months, said in an interview at his Atlanta office that the new philosophy might split the civil rights movement.

He said the SNCC's objective is to build political power for Negroes, instill within them a determination to make their own decisions—about civil rights and anything else—and to create a sense of identity with colored peoples of the world, particularly Africans.

But, the SNCC chairman said, the new move is not antiwhite nor black supremacist. Anti-white violence by Negroes is merely a fear of white persons, he said.

"And it's a healthy fear," Carmichael said. "It's one that they deserve to have for all they have done to the black people."

Some of the questions and answers from the interview:

Q: Who originated the term "black power"?

A: I don't know. That's a term that has been familiar with me ever since I was small. SNCC vocally started it among the civil rights organizations on the Mississippi march.

Q: What is your definition of the concept?

A: Black power seems to me a number of things. Number one, that black people in this country are oppressed for one reason — and that's because of their color, and that's what this country has to face. Their rally cry must be the issue around which they are oppressed, as it was for unions. The workers came together because they were workers. And we must come together around the issue that oppressed us—which is our blackness. Unions—they needed power to stop their oppression. We need power to stop ours. So it's black power. And black power just means black people coming together and getting people to represent their needs and to stop that oppression.

Q: Roy Wilkins (of the NAACP) has said no matter how you say it, it means anti-white. What is your view?

A: Well, I've never used that word and I don't see why the rallying cry of black power would mean that. I mean, the cry of the unions was "workers of the world unite." And they were uniting themselves. The only people who were worried were their employers who exploited them. So when people say, "black power," it seems to me the only people who should be worried are the people who are exploiting and oppressing black people.

McNamara, LBJ Review Viet Setup

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson has reviewed current military operations in Viet Nam with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, an overnight guest at the President's ranch.

Johnson and McNamara got together in advance of day-long talks the secretary will have Friday in Honolulu with Adm. U. S. Grant Sharpe, commander of all American forces in the Pacific and Southeast Asia.

The defense chief flew to the LBJ Ranch, some 60 miles north of here, shortly after three other Viet Nam experts ended a four-hour visit to the Johnson home and flew to Los Angeles to brief the National Governors Conference.

The earlier visitors were roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, Lt. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpastor, secretary to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Walt W. Rostow, Johnson's special presidential assistant for national security affairs.

Johnson has said McNamara and Sharpe will discuss military operations and logistical plans in connection with the Viet Nam war.

It's Still on Capitol Hill

By KELLY SMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — 'Twas the midsummer recess on Capitol Hill. Not a thing was stirring, not even a bill.

From office to office, each corridor and hall. Senate and House staffs were having a ball.

"A holiday!" "no memos!" came the refrain. "The congressman's home kissing babies again!"

With the boss gone, there's more time for brunch. More time for flirting, for knitting and lunch.

Two hours at the beauty shop, nobody's countin'. A walk on the lawn, leisurely lunch by the fountain.

No buzzers for roll calls, fewer phones jingling. Get on the elevator without even ringing.

Kennedy's rafting, Morse went to Wisconsin. Someone's in the White House and it isn't Johnson.

Fulbright's out of pocket and Teddy went north. Proxmire had five parades to celebrate his Fourth.

Tourists still flock to the Capitol with questions. With children, sun tan oil and suggestions.

In big empty chambers amid great dins, workmen are hammering and cleaning out bins.

Least Congress return Monday and wall in dismay, some staffs put in work before they play.

One office has installed a new red rug. Owner Joe Karth will have reason to be smug.

Another office proved itself deftly adroit by fixing a typewriter for Nedzi of Detroit.

Voters ignore the recess and write stacks of mail. Efforts to ignore it are of no avail.

It comes by the bushel, fills all the desks. There are demands to be answered, many requests.

British Chief Seeks Viet Peace

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson cast himself in the role of Viet Nam peace-maker today by arranging a surprise visit to Moscow prior to a conference with President Johnson in Washington later this month.

Wilson's chances of success were not rated high.

The Soviet Union has already rejected Britain's peace formula—reconvening the 1954 Geneva conference — but the prime minister may be able to open a new line of communication on Viet Nam between the Kremlin and the White House.

While Wilson ran against heavy odds in his pursuit of peace, a flurry of pronouncements by high U.S. officials left contradictory impressions on the prospects for peace talks.

—On the pessimistic side, Secretary of State Dean Rusk told newsmen in Kyoto, Japan, that "we have seen no evidence that the other side wants peace." Replying to critics of the U. S. air strikes on oil depots near Hanoi and Haiphong, he commented that he could not see how such attacks "will interfere with a peace the other side doesn't want."

On the optimistic side, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey told the annual U.S. Governors Conference in Los Angeles that "there are flickering bits of evidence, that are not solid or concrete, that Hanoi spokesmen are wandering around wondering if there is some way out." In Washington, Undersecretary of State George W. Ball said diplomatic reports indicated a growing war-weariness in North Viet Nam but added a political settlement "may be quite a long time off."

Wilson's announcement that he will fly to Moscow on July 16 for a three-day visit came on the eve of a Viet Nam debate in the House of Commons. He is under sharp attack from leftist critics in his Labor party who denounce his qualified support of the U. S. role in Viet Nam and urge him to make an independent peace effort.

Wilson will visit Washington July 29 for a day of talks with Johnson. Some diplomats considered the brevity of the visit a reflection of Johnson's annoyance with Wilson for refusing to endorse the U. S. air attacks on the oil depots at Hanoi and Haiphong.

Members of the British government felt Wilson's stand toward the bombings may improve his chances of making some impression on the Soviets. Britain and the Soviet Union are cochairmen of the Geneva conference. As such, the diplomatic initiative to revive the talks that ended the fighting in Indochina 12 years ago rests with them.

Commissioners Still Seek Location for Joint Airport

Wanted: a strip of land, fairly level, about 7,000 feet long.

The "wanted" sign was posted Wednesday night by the Pickaway and Ross County Boards of Commissioners as they marked off all previously considered sites for a joint Pickaway-Ross County Airport.

The commissioners, meeting in Chillicothe, set Aug. 1 as a deadline for finding a new site, preferably about midway between the two county seats, Circleville and Chillicothe.

The most recently considered site, dominated by the Gerald Hanley farm, was the last of five on the list for the proposed airport.

THE HANLEY land, located in Pickaway Twp., is east of U. S. Route 23 and south of the secondary state highway leading off Route 23 to Logan Elm Park.

The Commissioners agreed Wednesday night that too little length would be available for a 5,000-foot airport runway with a necessary 1,000-foot approach on either end.

A second site nearby was not considered because of lack of ready access.

Three sites in Ross County were discarded when the Ross Commissioners remained firm in a decision not to agree to land condemnation to secure needed acreage. None of the three tracts could be secured through private sale, they reported.

The motion setting Aug. 1 as a deadline to find a new site was made by Ross Commission-

5 Military Officers Sue To Get Out of Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five military officers have run into a roadblock—the Viet Nam war—in their attempts to return to civilian life. So they're suing the Pentagon.

Four of them charge that by refusing to accept their resignations the Defense Department is holding them in "involuntary servitude" in violation of the antislavery 13th amendment of the Constitution. The fifth claims his civil rights are being violated.

All have brought suits in federal district courts to require the secretaries of the Army and Navy to accept the resignations as part of their official duties.

Three Army captains—Samuel Caello, Edward J. Dwyer, and Eugene A. Fisher—have filed suits in U. S. District Court, Alexandria, Va., against Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor.

Caello is with the Army Signal Corps here. Fisher and Dwyer are stationed at Ft. Dix N.J.

Laurence C. Baldauf Jr., who sued secretary of the Navy Paul Nitze in U. S. District Court, San Diego, Calif., is currently stationed at the Naval air base in Apsugi, Japan. And Lt. Cmdr. Robert S. Borden, who brought suit in Boston against Nitze and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, is a Navy surgeon on board a destroyer in the Pacific, according to the Pentagon.

Fisher is a native of Greenville, Ohio.

All five are in the regular Army or Navy. All contend they have completed the minimum tour of duty to which they obligated themselves when they were first appointed.

The Justice Department does not dispute the claim that the five have completed their minimum obligations.

But an attorney familiar with the case said the department will respond that the men are serving at the pleasure of the President of the United States, who is not required to let them go upon completion of their minimum tours of duty.

Cleric Raps Stories of Moral Decay

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP)—Billy Graham sailed for the United States today aboard the liner Queen Mary convinced his month-long London crusade was a success and that tales of British moral decay are exaggerated.

"I found tremendous religious influence in Britain and was in every way greatly encouraged by what I saw and felt in the new, young generation," Graham told reporters.

"Some people have a tendency to pull Britain down, but I believe this is a wrong attitude. The same fortitude that brought Britain through crises in the past is still here today."

Graham said 1,049,000 people attended the meetings or watched them on closed-circuit television during his four-week crusade—three times the number who attended his three-month 1954 crusade in Britain.

"I had been warned very strongly that British young people would not respond to the message I preached, but they responded by the thousands," he said.

GOP Governors Shy About Viet Policy Backing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Republican governors circled cautiously today around a blanket endorsement on what President Johnson has done in Viet Nam—and what he may do in the future—with indications they are itching to make this an issue in the November elections.

There was a great deal of political no-speak on both sides as the 58th annual Governors Conference approached a vote on a watered-down version of an endorsement of Johnson's "global policies."

There was an attendant eagerness on the part of all concerned to reassure the fighting men in Viet Nam they have solid support at home.

Although most Republicans were prepared to join in a flag-supporting compromise resolution worked out in a bipartisan conference, several of them said privately they are leaving the door open to assail the President for any further steps he may take to step up the war.

W. Averell Harriman, the President's roving ambassador, and Walt W. Rostow, presidential assistant for national security affairs, briefed the governors Wednesday night on the Viet Nam situation. Most of their listeners said they heard little news.

Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California said the closed-session briefing sustained Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's report to the conference Wednesday that there were "flickering bits of evidence, though not solid or concrete" the North Vietnamese might be about ready to seek a negotiated peace.

The GOP members forced the watering down of original Democratic language of a proposed conference resolution which would have committed approving governors to "absolute support of our global commitments and the policy presently being followed to honor them."

As it finally came out, this phrase read "resolute support our global commitments."

Democratic Gov. Grant Sawyer of Nevada, instrumental in drafting the original Democratic version, said the final language was much broader and stronger than any resolution the governors had passed before. Few Republicans agree with him.

GOP Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon said he wants to find out "what the new resolution means—if it means anything."

"I don't endorse the bombings of Hanoi and Haiphong and I want to know more about what is involved before I vote."

Gov. John Connally of Texas, chairman of the Democratic caucus which voted unanimously earlier for the stronger resolution, said the revised version hardly could be called a "ringing endorsement" of the President's policies.

Lorain Police Promotions OKd

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Seven Lorain police officers, including Chief Robert Tirbe, will collect a total of about $7,500 in back pay as the result of an Ohio Supreme Court ruling upholding their promotions.

The higher pay for the seven had been held up when Lorain County Prosecutor Paul J. Mikus filed court action seeking to set aside the promotions. He contended the Civil Service Commission did not require efficiency ratings in considering the promotions.

However, the Ninth District Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court said failure to consider efficiency ratings did not invalidate the promotions.

Red China Gets U.S. Warning

KYOTO, Japan (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk warned Red China today that the United States will retaliate "with whatever means would be required" if it launches a nuclear attack against any of America's Asian allies.

Asked at a news conference if the United States is prepared to reply with atomic bombs if one of its Asian allies is attacked with nuclear weapons, Rusk paused, then answered with quiet deliberation:

"I can't think of anything more insane than an attack with nuclear weapons on an ally of the United States in Asia."

"We would meet our obligations under our mutual security treaties with whatever means would be required."

Though Communist China was not referred to either in the question or the answer, the exchange followed a discussion of Chinese nuclear testing and a statement by Rusk that the United States will take further development of Chinese nuclear capability "fully into account in our own defense arrangements."

Rusk held the news conference with Japanese Foreign Minister Etsusaburo Shiina at his side after the end of a three-day meeting of U. S. and Japanese Cabinet ministers.

The conference was the fifth annual meeting of the Joint U. S.-Japan Committee on Trade and Economic Affairs. The final communiqué reflected disagreements between the two countries on Viet Nam and trade with Red China.

The United States said it disapproved of long-term credits to Communist countries. The Japanese had wanted American approval for five-year credits for China to match those being extended by West Germany and other West European countries.

The communiqué did not mention the Japanese view on credits but said Japan would continue to develop trade relations with Communist countries "on the basis of the principle of separating the political and economic aspects of Japan's relations with them."

The communiqué also did not mention Viet Nam. It is known, however, that the United States would like to see greater Japanese nonmilitary participation in Viet Nam, while Japan wants military moderation and an early peace. Japan's aid in Viet Nam consists of a medical team and help for refugees.

Both Rusk and Shiina said the differences between their governments were slight. But they loom large in Japan where the government is under heavy criticism.

Little Hope Is Held for Sen. Byrd

BERRYVILLE, Va. (AP) — Retired Sen. Harry F. Byrd Sr., who built the dominant Democratic party organization in Virginia that bears his name has slipped into a deep coma from which doctors do not expect him to emerge.

The seriousness of the 79-year-old former senator's condition was underlined Wednesday when for the first time the family disclosed he was suffering from a malignant brain tumor.

There had been reports he was seriously ill, however, since he spent several days in March at the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville. Byrd retired from the U.S. Senate last November after 32 years and was succeeded by another son, Harry F. Byrd Jr. The younger Byrd is in the midst of a Democratic primary campaign for the party nomination for the remaining four years of his father's term.

Sole Surviving Son Plan OKd

Hardship Discharge To Be Granted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon authorized today the hardship discharge of U.S. servicemen who are the sole surviving sons in their families. The announcement said the new policy, effective immediately, will apply to the armed forces "except during the period of a war or national emergency declared by the Congress."

The Viet Nam war does not fall into this classification.

The new policy was laid down in a memorandum July 1 from Assistant Secretary of Defense Thomas D. Morris to the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force. Morris is in charge of manpower.

His brief memo says: "To preclude possible inequities concerning sole surviving sons, military personnel who become qualified sole surviving sons subsequent to their enlistment or induction, will be afforded the opportunity to apply for a hardship discharge, with favorable consideration resulting therefrom."

Morris told the service secretaries: "It is desired that this policy be applied uniformly throughout the military departments and that implementing regulations be disseminated at the earliest practicable date."

The action, a Pentagon spokesman said, brings defense policy in line with that of the Selective Service System which he said refrains from drafting sole surviving sons.

Such hardship discharges are open to men whose father and/or brothers or sisters have been killed in line of military duty, died of wounds, accidents or disease, or have been totally disabled physically or mentally "as a result of hazards incident to their service in the armed forces" since September 1940.

It does not apply to a man whose civilian relatives have been killed in mishaps or have died of disease or other causes.

The provision for hardship discharge of sole surviving sons was added to a Korean War directive which permitted men in this category to be assigned to noncombat duties upon their own request or application filed by a parent.

Soviet Poet Pens Verse Urging Peace

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet poet Yevgeny Yevtushenko published a letter in verse today to American author John Steinbeck calling on all Americans of good conscience to protest the war in Viet Nam.

Yevtushenko's letter appeared in the newspaper Literatny Gazette. Yevtushenko, once the angry young man of Soviet poetry whose outspoken verse infuriated Nikita Khrushchev, now often follows the Kremlin line.

Democratic Gov. Grant Sawyer of Nevada, instrumental in drafting the original Democratic version, said the final language was much broader and stronger than any resolution the governors had passed before. Few Republicans agree with him.

GOP Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon said he wants to find out "what the new resolution means—if it means anything."

"I don't endorse the bombings of Hanoi and Haiphong and I want to know more about what is involved before I vote."

Gov. John Connally of Texas, chairman of the Democratic caucus which voted unanimously earlier for the stronger resolution, said the revised version hardly could be called a "ringing endorsement" of the President's policies.

The communique also did not mention Viet Nam. It is known, however, that the United States would like to see greater Japanese nonmilitary participation in Viet Nam, while Japan wants military moderation and an early peace. Japan's aid in Viet Nam consists of a medical team and help for refugees.

Both Rusk and Shina said the differences between their governments were slight. But they loom large in Japan where the government is under heavy criticism for supporting the United States in Viet Nam at all.

Rusk defended the bombing of the Hanoi and Haiphong fuel depots and said the United States has no interest in bombing civilian populations there. He scoffed at critics who said the air attacks on the doorstep of North Viet Nam's two cities added an obstacle to a negotiated peace in Viet Nam.

"What peace?" he asked with sarcasm in his voice. "I have seen no evidence that the other side wants peace. I cannot see that the striking of POL (petroleum, oil, lubricants) will interfere with a peace that the other side doesn't want."

Though Communist China was not referred to either in the question or the answer, the exchange followed a discussion of Chinese nuclear testing and a statement by Rusk that the United States will take further development of Chinese nuclear capability "fully into account in our own defense arrangements."

Rusk held the news conference with Japanese Foreign Minister Etsusaburo Shina at his side after the end of a three-day meeting of U. S. and Japanese Cabinet ministers.

The conference was the fifth annual meeting of the Joint U. S.-Japan Committee on Trade and Economic Affairs. The final communique reflected disagreements between the two countries on Viet Nam and trade with Red China.

The United States said it disapproved of long-term credits to Communist countries. The Japanese had wanted American approval for five-year credits for China to match those being extended by West Germany and other West European countries.

The communique did not mention the Japanese view on credits but said Japan would continue to develop trade relations with Communist countries "on the basis of the principle of separating the political and economic aspects of Japan's relations with them."

The communique also did not mention Viet Nam. It is known, however, that the United States would like to see greater Japanese nonmilitary participation in Viet Nam, while Japan wants military moderation and an early peace. Japan's aid in Viet Nam consists of a medical team and help for refugees.

Red China Gets U.S. Warning

KYOTO, Japan (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk warned Red China today that the United States will retaliate "with whatever means would be required" if it launches a nuclear attack against any of America's Asian allies.

Asked at a news conference if the United States is prepared to reply with atomic bombs if one of its Asian allies is attacked with nuclear weapons, Rusk paused, then answered with quiet deliberation:

"I can't think of anything more insane than an attack with nuclear weapons on an ally of the United States in Asia."

"We would meet our obligations under our mutual security treaties with whatever means would be required."

Though Communist China was not referred to either in the question or the answer, the exchange followed a discussion of Chinese nuclear testing and a statement by Rusk that the United States will take further development of Chinese nuclear capability "fully into account in our own defense arrangements."

Sole Surviving Son Plan OK'd

Hardship Discharge To Be Granted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon authorized today the hardship discharge of U. S. servicemen who are the sole surviving sons in their families.

The announcement said the new policy, effective immediately, will apply to the armed forces "except during the period of a war or national emergency declared by the Congress."

The Viet Nam war does not fall into this classification.

The new policy was laid down in a memorandum July 1 from Assistant Secretary of Defense Thomas D. Morris to the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force. Morris is in charge of manpower.

His brief memo says: "To preclude possible inequities concerning sole surviving sons, military personnel who become qualified sole surviving sons subsequent to their enlistment or induction, will be afforded the opportunity to apply for a hardship discharge, with favorable consideration resulting therefrom."

Morris told the service secretaries: "It is desired that this policy be applied uniformly throughout the military departments and that implementing regulations be disseminated at the earliest practicable date."

IN MEMORIAM — Marvin Stealy (seated), president of The Savings Bank Board of Directors, was on hand at Berger Hospital Thursday to officially dedicate a private room furnished by the bank in memory of the late Turney Glick. Mr. Glick, active in many civic affairs, was president of the bank's board of directors prior to his death. Miss Ellen Leist (standing) expressed her thanks on behalf of the hospital to the local financial institution for the contribution.

Freckles Are 'In' Now

NEW YORK (AP) — Freckles — those sun-induced flecks on the face over which almost every woman more than 12 years old despairs — are now considered beauty marks to be coveted and admired.

This spot report comes from Paris where, according to the New York fashion trade publication Women's Wear Daily, the jeune fille without any freckles are painting them on to make up for this deficiency.

Spreading like the pox, the spot fever is expected to become contagious soon among fashion-conscious ladies in this country. The cosmetics industry is ready for it.

"Charming and irresistible" is the way Amelia Bassin, an executive for Faberge, reacts to freckles. The firm intends to make them a part of its out-door Western look for fall.

"The next step after putting on natural-colored freckles," she says, "will be matching them to the color of a dress. For example, purple freckles with a purple dress."

On the other hand, Eddy Senz thoroughly disapproves of freckles as a beauty vogue for just any woman. He is the veteran makeup man who takes time out from applying his bag of ment celebrities to rush to Texas or Washington to emphasize the best features of the Johnson women.

"Freckles is a part of the glow of youth and should not be hidden by the young," he says. "But it is wishful thinking for a mature woman to believe that freckles can do anything to improve her. The freckle fad is a part of this whole silly youth worshipping kick."

Commissioners

Commented Pickaway Commissioner Lloyd Melvin: "It looks like a sad story."

SAID Ross Commissioner Emerson Brown: "We should build an airport to accommodate industry, something we can afford and use, something that won't cost too much to keep up."

Members of each board agreed to contact the other promptly if a new prospective site is located. At the same time, the six-man airport advisory committee, which the commissioners had appointed, also will be asked to scout for a new site.

The commissioners voiced the opinion that any new site probably will be farther away from U. S. Route 23 than they originally had wished. Close access to the four-lane superhighway between Chillicothe and Circleville had been labeled as a major point of desirability in initial planning.

While Brown recently had plugged for acceptance of the Flying M Ranch site, west of Ohio Route 104 in Ross County, no mention of this area was raised Wednesday night. Pickaway officials had turned thumbs-down on this location at a previous conference.

Stock Mart Is Unsettled

NEW YORK (AP) — A rallying stock market was unsettled early this afternoon by a report that the Warsaw Pact conference has agreed to send volunteers to Viet Nam if Ho Chi Minh's government asks for them, according to a Soviet broadcast.

Stocks had been continuing their rally of Wednesday, although on a more limited basis. Some brokers said they believed the "traditional summer rally" was under way on schedule.

Even as the over-all market was continuing to rise, however, there was scattered profit taking by traders which held the averages to moderate gains. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.4 at 22.2 with industrials up 2.0, rails up .9 and utilities up .4. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.78 at 891.64.

Board Votes Down Request For Employee

A request from the Child Welfare Board for extra help at the County Children's Home was voted down Wednesday afternoon by Pickaway's Board of Commissioners.

The request asked for one new employee to serve as housekeeper and cook, primarily to serve while regular help is on vacation.

In seeking the new employee, the letter of request asked for sufficient funds to bring the salaries of present employees in line with amount that would be paid the extra help.

The request was turned down on negative votes by solons Lloyd Melvin and Charles Morris.

Commissioner Wayne Hines, in casting an affirmative nod, said he was in favor of approving the request for another employee to serve during vacation periods.

Melvin and Morris said raises were granted County Home employees at the beginning of this year. They said they felt this was not the time to approve another. Hines took a similar position in regard to this provision of the request, although he noted that proper employee arrangements should be made for vacation periods.

Pre-School Test Program Starts July 18 in County

Pickaway County Superintendent of Schools George D. McDowell announced today that pre-school testing of children will begin July 18.

The tests are for youngsters who will be age 6 after school starts. Mrs. Opal Parmer, who has been added to the county superintendents staff, will conduct tests at various high schools throughout the county.

McDowell noted there will be about 40 youngsters in the Teays Valley District and 20 each in the Westfall and Logan Elm Districts taking the tests. Mrs. Parmer's schedule calls for four youngsters to be tested each day.

ALTHOUGH her original contract called for her to start

Aug. 1, it was revised in order that all youngsters applying for the tests could be handled.

The school head said Pickaway County Commissioners originally had agreed to provide office space in the Courthouse for Mrs. Parmer's use.

The quarters currently housing the Selective Service office had been verbally promised, according to McDowell.

However, the Pickaway County Bar Assn. and Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer have pointed out that the room in question is needed for expansion of the law library.

McDowell said today there is office space available at Logan Elm High School for Mrs. Parmer if the commissioners utilize the space for the law library.

Red Pact Powers Offer North Viets More Aid

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Members of the Warsaw Pact assailed U.S. policy in Viet Nam today in strong but familiar phrases, and promised more aid, to Hanoi, including volunteers if Ho Chi Minh's government asks for them.

A declaration issued by Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Poland, Romania and the Soviet Union reiterated the position often expressed in Moscow.

It accused the United States of criminal aggression in Viet Nam and called recent raids on fuel depots on the outskirts of Hanoi and Haiphong "a new and more dangerous step" escalating the war as a threat to world peace.

Members of the East European military alliance, who held a summit meeting in Bucharest Monday through Wednesday, listed four points:

—They firmly warn the United States of the consequences of the war, the "consequences" not specified.

—They "give and will give" North Viet Nam "growing and many-sided moral and political support," concluding economic aid and defensive weapons needed to meet the new steps in the war.

They are ready to offer volunteers to go to the aid of the Vietnamese people, if Hanoi asks for them.

—They charged the United States with trying to expand the war to Laos and Cambodia and called for observance of the 1954 and 1962 Geneva agreements on Indochina.

The declaration, signed Wednesday night and made public today, called for "unity of action" by Communist countries to support the Communist cause in Viet Nam.

Highway Work Draws Complaints

A letter outlining complaints of residents of New Holland was drafted this in a session of the Village Council.

The complaints stem from the widening and paving of Route 22 which runs through the village. They include broken tile drains, sidewalks broken by heavy equipment and relocation of curbs.

The letter, to be sent to the Ohio Highway Department, asked that a representative be sent to make an investigation.

Car Strikes Pedestrian

A 17-year-old youth walking along the Harrisburg - Fairfield Road five miles north of Ashville, was struck by a car Wednesday afternoon.

Gary Cotton, 17, Route 1, Lockbourne, was admitted to University Hospital, Columbus. He suffered lacerations and abrasions and a contusion of the head.

He was struck by an auto driven by Ray Lenhardt, 76, Groveport. Lenhardt told Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Warren Straley he was traveling about 25 miles per hour at the time of the accident.

He said he did not see the youth until it was too late to avoid striking him.

The youth walked home immediately after the accident. He was then taken to a physician's office before being admitted to the hospital.

No charges will be filed, Straley said today. He noted his investigation indicated no traffic violations on the part of the motorist.

The pedestrian was apparently struck in the roadway. Cotton told the investigating officer he could remember nothing of the accident.

'Black Power' Is Defined by Negro Leader

Q: Does the concept of black power involve cooperation at any level with the white community?

A: It's obvious that it has to. The question is when do you do that. We say that when you do it now, you do it from a point of weakness. You beg them. You say, "Look, man it's morally wrong for you to treat us this way. We're marching, getting beat up. You should be ashamed of yourself." Rather from a point of strength where you say, "We have x number of votes. We want this road fixed right away or else we won't vote for you." Now that seems to me to be a much different point.

Q: Wilkins has said that the aim of the civil rights movement always has been to include the Negro in white society. Do you agree with that?

A: No. I totally disagree. I've never seen myself fighting to get into a country that's bombing the hell out of Viet Nam or a country that sees money as its only raison d'etre (reason for existence). I mean, I've never seen that. What I thought the fight of the civil rights movement was to get white people off our backs. And that only.

Q: Considering that Negroes constitute a distinct minority, how do you envisage the practical application of black power and in what specific circumstances?

A: It seems to me that it has already been answered. All you're doing when you talk about black power is that you're bringing black people together as an independent force within the political systems to have people speak to their needs. So, if you are 10 per cent or if you are 5 per cent within a county, if your needs are better roads, you get those 5 per cent together. With their vote, you say, "Now, this is all we want. We want better roads. We want better jobs. We want better things. You can continue to bomb the hell out of Viet Nam as far as we're concerned. But this is what we want."

Q: Does the black power concept exclude the approach of nonviolence?

A: It seems to me that that's totally irrelevant to what we're talking about. I'm not talking about making black people non-violent or making them violent. I'm talking about organizing black people to get decent houses, to get decent jobs, to get decent things and the tactics will depend upon the resistance that was built up against those things.

A: Nonviolence and black power—how do they go together?

A: I still don't see in my own mind what the hangup is about it.

Vacationists Discover Taxes Are Very Common

CHICAGO (AP) — Motorists who take long vacation trips will get away from home, office and dull daily routine — but not from taxes.

Commerce Clearing House studied the nation's tax map and reported today:

Forty-two states and the District of Columbia levy general sales taxes.

Every state except North Carolina taxes cigarettes.

And all have state taxes on gasoline.

Commerce Clearing House, a private organization which does research on tax and business law for its clients, said sales tax rates range from 2 per cent in Indiana, Iowa, Louisiana, Nevada, New York, Oklahoma, Texas and Virginia to 5 per cent in Pennsylvania.

Virginia recently adopted a 2 per cent sales tax but it won't go into effect until Sept. 1.

That will leave only Alaska, Delaware, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska New Hampshire Oregon and Vermont without a general sales tax.

This tax on sales and services is popular with the collectors. It brings in about 26 per cent of the total state revenues.

Commerce Clearing House says state gasoline taxes range from 5 cents a gallon in Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Texas and Wyoming to a combined Hawaii-County tax of 11 cents a gallon.

New Jersey boosted its cigarette tax rate this year from 8 cents to 11 cents, joining Texas and Washington as the states with the highest rates on cigarettes.

"In the case of cigarette and gasoline taxes," Commerce Clearing House said, "the state rates are in addition to an 8-cent-a-pack federal cigarette tax and a 4-cent-a-gallon federal gasoline tax, as well as similar levies made by hundreds of cities and towns."

"For example, cigarette buyers in New York City pay 22 cents a pack in taxes consisting of 4 cents city tax, 10 cents state tax and 8 cents federal tax. And motorists to the caverns of Carlsbad, N.M., will pay a gasoline tax of 11 cents comprised of 4 cents federal, 6 cents state and 1 cent city."

As parting advice, the tax research organization said travelers may find local sales taxes in many communities.

Ohio School Bus Bidding Labeled as 'Disappointing'

By STEPHEN H. MILLER

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State officials manned their tabulators today, making the best of "disappointing" bids received in their second attempt to put into effect a plan for centralized school bus bidding.

Thirteen bus body distributors turned in bids Wednesday in response to the state's second call for body prices. Chassis manufacturers and dealers submitted bids on schedule last month, but no body bids were received.

John M. Parsons, education finance director, said no precise figures will be available until the bids are tabulated, but said Wednesday's prices ran high. "Apparently Kentucky has been paying $2,200 for one type of bus body that will cost us $3,400," he said.

The bids were sought in behalf of 280 local school districts which chose to participate in the centralized plan. The bids will also be used to set ceiling prices for school bus purchases in Ohio.

Officials had hoped to save up to $1,500 per bus with the plan, Parsons called Wednesday's bids "disappointing," but said, "at least we should be able to pick up some savings from the chassis bids."

The ceiling prices will determine the amount of state subsidies paid to help finance local bus purchases. The General Assembly approved $5 million for the purpose last year, but delays in the plan have prevented its use.

The state attorney general's or political or otherwise?

A: Yes. That's correct. When you talk about black people in this country, you talk about property less people, I mean, as a whole we don't have any property. We're still waiting for our 40 acres and a mule. The only power now left to us that we can win from is political power. And maybe using that as a stepping stone, we can get to economic power, which is really the crucial problem.

Q: So, when you boil it down, really what you're talking about is political power?

A: That's correct.

Q: Do you feel the black power approach will split the civil rights movement?

A: Well, it might, I don't know. But I think what the civil rights movement has to do is to not act as a buffer zone between the black community and the white community, but to express the feeling of the black community in the tone of the black community. That's what we in SNCC are going to do.

office had threatened to seek a Justice Department investigation unless body bids were submitted Wednesday. A second boycott, they said, "would be a good indication of collusion not to bid."

The attorney general's office is waiting for tabulation of bids to be completed before saying what future action might be planned.

'Black Power' Is Defined by Negro Leader

Q: Does the concept of black power involve cooperation at any level with the white community?

A: It's obvious that it has to. The question is when do you do that. We say that when you do it now, you do it from a point of weakness. You beg them. You say, "Look, man it's morally wrong for you to treat us this way. We're marching, getting beat up. You should be ashamed of yourself." Rather from a point of strength where you say, "We have x number of votes. We want this road fixed right away or else we won't vote for you." Now that seems to me to be a much different point.

Q: Wilkins has said that the aim of the civil rights movement always has been to include the Negro in white society. Do you agree with that?

A: No. I totally disagree. I've never seen myself fighting to get into a country that's bombing the hell out of Viet Nam or a country that sees money as its only raison d'etre (reason for existence). I mean, I've never seen that. What I thought the fight of the civil rights movement was to get white people off our backs. And that only.

Q: Considering that Negroes constitute a distinct minority, how do you envisage the practical application of black power and in what specific circumstances?

A: It seems to me that it has already been answered. All you're doing when you talk about black power is that you're bringing black people together as an independent force within the political systems to have people speak to their needs. So, if you are 10 per cent or so, if you are 5 per cent within a county, if your needs are better roads, you get those 5 per cent together. With their vote, you say, "Now, this is all we want. We want better roads. We want better jobs. We want better things. You can continue to bomb the hell out of Viet Nam as far as we're concerned. But this is what we want."

Q: Does the black power concept exclude the approach of nonviolence?

A: It seems to me that that's totally irrelevant to what we're talking about. I'm not talking about making black people non-violent or making them violent. I'm talking about organizing black people to get decent houses, to get decent jobs, to get decent things and the tactics will depend upon the resistance what was built up against those things.

A: Nonviolence and black power—how do they go together?

A: I still don't see in my own mind what the hangup is about it.

Q: Does black power imply the use of violence?

A: Not in my connotation of it. I don't see why it should. When you talk about power in this country, you talk about being able to live within the political spectrum. I don't see why that concept would be any different from anybody else wielding their political power.

Q: You are talking also not only in terms of political power, but what's implied in this is the whole scope of power or strength whether it's economic

The Communist Party, U. S. A., has met in more or less open convention for the first time since 1959. Helped back to the surface by Supreme Court decisions which largely nullified the Smith Act's antisubversives provisions, the comrades find, not entirely to their liking, they've been elbowing out of the Far Left.

On and off campus, youths have spurned the Communist Party for organizations that reject its gradualism and discipline. They are impatient, a membership report finds, with limited goals and anything short of "socialism now."

Finally, the worldwide schism that divides communist loyalties between Moscow and Peking has produced a "Communist Party, U. S. A., Marxist-Leninist," which has boycotted the old-party-liners for their failure to espouse "violent revolution."

Comfort might be found in the divisions that beset the radical left, except for one pervading factor. All factions share a common devotion to the techniques of subverting, manipulating and directing, for their own purposes, the grievances of the lower paid.

Their interest is in destroying existing structures, and never mind what may replace them. Therein lies their danger.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A GAGGLE of scientists, working on an English to Russian translating machine, have suffered a temporary setback. Testing their device the other morning, they fed it the trite expression, "The spirit is willing but the flesh is weak." The machine wheezed and clanked, red and green lights flashed—and then out came its translation: "The liquor is good but the food stinks."

A Peace Corps operative reports on a squad assigned to stretch a new telephone line across a remote district in the Zulu country. A Zulu chief and his advisers watched the work in silence for a while and then the chief delivered his considered opinion: "White men not so smart. Put wire so high, livestock can walk right out under it."

Assistant to top-level census taker: "Don't you think we'll open ourselves to some criticism if we release these figures under your suggested heading of 'Population of the States Broken Down by Age and Sex'?"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

I have been eating a considerable amount of licorice candy to suppress my appetite. It doesn't seem to be doing very much for my weight. In fact, I seem to be gaining. Somebody suggested that maybe the licorice was dangerous. Is this possible?

Mrs. I. V., Indiana
Dear Mrs. V.: Only recently an interesting report was brought to my attention about the overuse of licorice candy. Two Scandinavian doctors reported a strange chemical imbalance in patients who had been eating lots of licorice.

As yet they have not satisfactorily explained why there was a loss of the mineral, potassium, from the body, or why there was a tendency to high blood pressure, and the retention of fluid in the tissues. They speculated that licorice might contain a cortisone-like substance, which was the offender.

The likelihood is that you have not done yourself an injustice by your own "weight reducing technique." There are better, easier and more rewarding methods of losing weight. The simplest, of course, is the well-disciplined reduction of caloric intake.

A small discoloration on my neck seems to have grown larger. Perhaps, it is because I concentrate on it too much. I was once told to watch it and it now seems all I do is watch it. I don't know what I'm supposed to see while watching it. I do know I'm terrified.

Mrs. K. N., Pennsylvania
Dear Mrs. N.: I, too, don't quite understand what is expected of you when you are told to "watch it." I'm afraid that patients begin to devote all of their attention on a wart, mole or discoloration, expecting that something will happen and, when it does, it will be dangerous. Psychologically, this can be destructive to the inner peace of people who are already

Doctors Will Sweat It Out

By John Chamberlain

Medicare's a-comin' in, and it would take a whole battery of Secretary of Defense McNamara's best computers to make a meaningful estimate of the pressure on the nation's hospital facilities that could result from it.

It so happens that the new graduates from our eighty-eight medical schools have just pushed the doctor population of the United States over the 30,000 mark for the first time. The American Medical Association claims that the number of doctors in the U. S. has been increasing at a faster rate than the general population — which presumably, is an oblique way of saying that the agitation about a shortage of physicians is a lot of nonsense. The AMA says that "in 1960, physicians totaled 252,984, or one physician for every 737 people." At the end of 1965, "the number rose to 292,088 . . . or one physician for every 681 people." By 1975, so the AMA prophesies, there will be one doctor for every 638 persons.

These figures may be reassuring, but the layman who has had his own personal misadventure in an attempt to get quick medical attention, or an early assignment to a hospital, will want to know a lot more about other factors affecting the overall picture. Not so long ago the federally appointed Bane Commission reported that the medical schools were not graduating physicians fast enough to keep up with the population explosion. The AMA contends that the Bane Commission missed the mark because it failed to foresee such things as the boom in medical school construction and the influx of physicians from Europe who have been coming to the U. S. for new opportunities in medical education. But the AMA seemingly contradicts its own optimistic forecasts when it expresses worry about the possible drain on physicians' energies connected with handling a surge of new patients under Medicare. The fear about wasting time on the bookkeeping involved in Medicare billing indicates that doctors are already up to their necks in work. And the relevant deduction from this is that there could be an undersupply of doctors if the newly-covered 65- and over groups really inundate the hospitals.

The imponderables in the new equation forced by Medicare are many. And the British experience is not reassuring, especially in the light of aging populations. Nobody knows how hypochondriacal the elderly in the U. S. will turn out to be. And nobody knows just what percentage of the hypochondria will be justified by discoveries that aches and pains which have gone unreported in the past have a substantial basis in fact.

The trouble with overall statistics is that they often conceal more than they reveal. The family doctor has been becoming a rarity in many regions. Specialists have taken over, a few of whom do some general practitioner type of work. Individual experiences are to be taken with a grain of salt, yet it is a fact that if you burn your hands in a kitchen accident in a small community on a week-end and try to get expert attention from a local physician you may run into a grand run-around from a telephone answering service that is unable to locate a doctor who will see you. In which case, you may have to drive to the emergency ward of a distant city hospital, where there is attention to be had. This sort of thing, which happened to some one I know just last week, amounts to no great tragedy, but it does cast doubt on the theory that the doctors are all in the right places.

Since the new medical discoveries — antibiotics, vaccines — enable physicians to make quick cures or to forestall sickness altogether, doctors can handle numerical workloads that would have been impossible a generation ago. But with the coming of Medicare — and, after a few years Kiddieicare — the old statistics could be meaningless. The doctors will have to sweat it out for a few months or even years before they can know what the future will bring. If it is any consolation to them, the politicians will be sweating it out a little more fearfully. A Grand Central Terminal crush at the hospitals between July and election day in November could hurt at the polls even more than inflation or the war in Vietnam.

Researchers Find Hospital Errors Greater Than Had Been Suspected

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—It is 9:50 p.m.
Nurse X, nearing the end of her tiring shift, suddenly realizes it is past the time for a dose of medicine for the patient in room 3010-E.
Hurriedly, she plucks a bottle from the mass of those arrayed before her—the wrong one.
She shakes two tablets out, scurries to room 3010-E, and rouses the patient, who swallows the pills.
Minutes later, Nurse goes home.
This, a research team reports, is an example of one of several types of errors that occur in hospitals more often than commonly assume.
Dr. William Heller and Kenneth Barker of the University of Arkansas Medical Center in Little Rock detailed their findings Dec. 29 in a report to a medical meeting in Berkeley, Calif.
The report is based on four studies—two of which uncovered errors, two of which sought methods of eliminating the errors.
Barker started the project. In 1959, while a resident in pharmacy at a university teaching hospital, Barker noticed a nurse carrying two hypodermic syringes into a room with four patients. By mistake, each patient got the wrong injection.
Barker wondered how often such things happened and he launched a research project to check on errors.
After it had been in full swing for two months, Barker said: "Errors were occurring at such a rate that at least every sixth dose administered was in error"—one per patient every day.

Barker said more than 99 per cent of the errors went by unknown to anyone, including the person making the error.
By projection of his figures, Barker's research indicated 51,200 errors would be made in the hospital during a year. But only 36 errors were reported in a year through normal channels outside the research program.
Barker followed up with a pilot system to see if the number of errors could be reduced. It led him to believe they could, and he laid the foundation for the current study.
Heller, 40, and Barker, 29, both natives of Ohio, came together in 1961 when each discovered at a Chicago pharmaceutical meeting that the other had been working independently on the problem.
Working under a $42,000 grant from the Hartford Foundation of New York City, the doctors decided to expand Barker's previous error study.
They followed a careful plan of tracing each dose at a general hospital and placing each error in a specific category.
Terms of the grant forbid them to name the hospital.
The categories of errors are:
1. Omission—a dose not given by the time the following dose was due.
2. Wrong dose—a dose at least 5 per cent above or below the prescribed amount.
3. Extra dose—one given more than the number of times prescribed by the physician.
4. Wrong form—a dose given in a manner other than that prescribed, such as giving in pill form a drug prescribed for injection.
5. Unordered drug—a dose not prescribed by the physician.
6. Wrong time—a dose given at least 30 minutes before or after the prescribed time.
The researchers examined 9,789 instances where medicine was given. Errors occurred in 15 per cent of them—one out of each seven doses.
In a follow to their conclusions that errors are all too prevalent in hospitals, Heller and Barker now are chipping away at the problem of eliminating medication errors.
Assisted by a two-year, $733,000 grant from the U.S. Public Health Service, they have developed and tested an experimental system for giving medicine.
At present, most hospitals operate under a system that leaves to nurses the preparing and administering of doses scheduled for patients.
Under the experimental system devised by Barker and Heller, all drugs were distributed from a central pharmacy nurses on a dose-by-dose basis when each was due.
Drugs for injection were provided in labeled, disposable syringes; tablets were in small, labeled bags.
The experimental system was operated for two months at the Arkansas Medical Center, and Barker and Heller report preliminary results show the error rate was reduced by more than half.
Barker and Heller say the program may also result in dollar savings in at least two areas:
—With all drugs handled out of a central pharmacy, they are removed from nursing divisions where losses run high—$18,000 a year at the Arkansas Medical Center, for example.
—With a reduction in medication errors, hospitals could hope to save themselves the expense of legal battles.

The World Today

By BARRY SCHWEID
For James Marlow
WASHINGTON (AP)—
"Black power." It defies definition. But its impact on the civil rights movement and on American society promises to be profound.
The slogan came crashing into the lexicon during the civil rights march through Mississippi. "Say black power!" Supporters of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee shouted to rural Negroes. "Black power!" They shouted back.
What had been an idea in the mind of Stokely Carmichael, the new chairman of SNCC, had bloomed into a battle cry.
It was evident at once that part of the civil rights movement was undergoing change.
John Lewis, who was ousted as chairman of SNCC by Carmichael in May, found himself out of step. He dropped out of the organization, saying he disagreed with its slogan. "I'm not prepared to give up my personal commitment to nonviolence," he said.
But the Congress of Racial Equality fell into line. It concluded its convention in Baltimore Sunday by adopting "black power" as the dominant philosophy of the movement.
"CORE will not initiate—and I emphasize that—any form of violence," said Lincoln Lynch, association national director, "but when one is attacked he should defend himself."
"Nonviolence is another move to dehumanize the Negro man—to take away his last remaining right," Lynch said.
As if overnight, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, seemed middle-aged. The question now is whether the civil rights banner has been wrested from them by the younger and more militant.
Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP, stood fast against the tide. He told newsmen in Los Angeles, where the NAACP is holding its 57th annual convention: "The trouble with 'black power' is it implies 'antiwhite' and we can't have anything to do with it. We are loath to talk about it."
Wilkins then went before the convention's 2,000 delegates to slash "black power" as "the father of hatred and the mother of violence."
"We of the NAACP will have none of this," he declared. "It shall not now poison our forward march."
Dr. Martin Luther King, who as director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference had made nonviolence the byword of the civil rights movement, said "I have not lost faith in nonviolence." And he said he will not use the term "black power" in directing his organization.
But so far as King is concerned, the jury is still out on what the slogan actually means. "Black power has not been clearly defined; it's still ambiguous," he said in New York Tuesday.
If, it turns out, "black power" simply means using the ballot to exert greater political influence, only diehard opponents of Negro rights are likely to take offense.
And, if it means whites in leadership positions within the civil rights movement are to be dislodged by Negroes, "black power" essentially denotes an internal struggle.
But there is more than just a hint that "black power" means a good deal more.

Hospital Insurance Offers 90 Days Benefit Services

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is another in a series of articles by John J. Carr, social security district manager in Chillicothe, on how Medicare will work. The information is based on "Your Medicare Handbook."
Hospital insurance will help pay for care in a hospital for up to 90 days during each spell of illness.
Each spell of illness provides for 90 days of benefit services. For the first 60 days, the insurance pays for all but $40 for the covered services received. From the 61st to the 90th day patients would be responsible for the first $10 each day for covered services.
Here is what hospital insurance will cover: room and board in a semi-private room (2 to 4 beds in a room); nursing services ordinarily furnished to the hospital's patients; supplies, appliances and equipment ordinarily furnished to the hospital's patients, such as splints, casts, wheelchairs, crutches;
Blood transfusions, except for the cost of the first three pints in one spell of illness; medical services ordinarily furnished by the hospital; therapeutic services ordinarily furnished to the hospital's patients, such as X-ray or radium treatments; operating room costs;
Drugs and biologicals ordinarily furnished to the hospital's patients; diagnostic services ordinarily furnished by the hospital to its patients. For example, blood tests, electrocardiograms, etc. Services of hospital residents and interns who are in approved training programs.
What hospital insurance will not cover: private room, unless it is medically necessary—ordinarily only when the patient's condition requires him to be isolated (otherwise you pay the difference); private duty nurses; cost of first 3 pints of blood (hospitals will not charge for pints replaced by donors); physicians' and surgeons' services. (medical insurance helps pay doctor bills); personal comfort items, such as radio and telephone charges, TV rental, etc.; hospital services after 90 days in a spell of illness.

Judge Plans Parley on Dr. Sam Case

CLEVELAND (AP) — U.S. District Judge Carl A. Weinman of Dayton, who ordered Samuel H. Sheppard freed in 1964, will meet with counsel for the defense and prosecution July 15 to discuss the case.

Weinman said Wednesday he asked Cuyahoga County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan and F. Leo Bailey of Boston, Sheppard's lawyer, to attend the meeting in Dayton "for suggestions as to the journal entry I have to make on the court's mandate."

The U.S. Supreme Court, in upholding Judge Weinman's order, said the former osteopath should be freed or retried within a "reasonable" time.

Both sides are expected to discuss the new trial date with Weinman, who ruled that Sheppard's rights in his first trial were violated in 1954 by prejudicial press reports. He ordered Sheppard be retried within 60 days or freed.

Sheppard, convicted of second-degree murder in the bludgeoning death of his first wife, Marilyn, is free on $10,000 bond. He has steadfastly denied killing his wife.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

'Out of Shape;' Not Out of Place

DEAR ABBY: An old flame of my husband is now married. (Thank heavens.) She is pregnant and is big as a barrel. Well, she sings in the choir, and last Sunday was there, right in the front row, looking a sight and my mother-in-law said she was the prettiest girl in the choir. My husband agreed with her!

Abby I nearly flipped. Do you think it was proper for a woman that out-of-shape to sing in a choir that doesn't provide choir robes? I have been in quite a few churches and have never seen anything like that.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: If she had been just any "out-of-shape" choir member would it have offended you? I doubt it. Be honest. Your mother-in-law's needling, and your husband's agreement with her were the real irritants. Since when is a woman big with child out of place in a church—in the choir or anywhere else?

DEAR ABBY: I recently borrowed a beautiful, antique, crystal cut glass punch bowl from a bachelor friend. It had been given to him by his family. Well, you guessed it. When I washed it, I used too hot water, and the bowl split right down the middle—in half! I took it to a china repair shop and they assured me of a first-class job for $14.

They did say that although it would hardly be noticeable it would lose much of its value if the owner ever wanted to sell it. What should I do, Abby? I must tell the man, of course, and I would gladly replace the bowl no matter what the cost.

Should I go ahead and have the bowl repaired? Or should I just try to find a replacement? Please help me. I am desperate.

BORROWED TROUBLE

DEAR TROUBLE: First find a replacement as nearly like the original. Present it to the gentleman with your apologies and an explanation. Return the broken bowl and let him decide.

DEAR ABBY: I would give 10 years of my life to be a professional wrestler, but I don't know how to go about it. I am 42 years old, weigh 145 pounds, and know I would be good at wrestling if I had some training. I can lift 200 pounds off the floor and shoulder it with no trouble at all.

I work in a furniture factory nine hours a day, then go home and work around the house until 11 p. m., and I'm still not tired. My children are grown, and I could go anywhere in the country for training. I am also a lady. Can you help me?

WANTS TO WRESTLE

DEAR WANTS: Ask the sport editor of your local newspaper how to contact a promoter. Or inquire at the local gym where wrestlers work out. This shouldn't be a hard game to muscle in on. Good luck.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Braden and baby daughter were weekend visitors of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl V. Hohenstein. However the celebration of "The Fourth" was marred by the sudden death of Mr. Hohenstein who died early Monday from an apparent heart attack. The sympathy of the community goes out to Mrs. Hohenstein, their son, Carl Jr., and family and their daughter, Mrs. Braden and Mr. Braden.

The children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Beavers (now deceased) make it a habit to get together at least three times a year at the little place owned by Mr. Riley Ireton, near Londonderry. There is a small log cabin with a fireplace and plenty of room for the young folks to play ball and other games.

The "Fourth" is one of the days when they meet there and have a picnic. There were Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Beavers and Judy, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Beavers and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Beavers and Jeanne and Marjory Ellen Buchwalter, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Donahue and children, Mr. and Mrs. Riley Ireton and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Seymour and family, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Beavers and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Beavers and baby daughter.

Hanoi Parades Captured U.S. War Pilots

TOKYO (AP) — Dozens of American pilots captured by North Viet Nam were paraded over Hanoi streets Wednesday as tens of thousands of residents shouted "down with the U.S. aggressors," Radio Hanoi reported.

The broadcast said the American prisoners were taken through the streets under armed escort to a place where they will be interrogated.

The broadcast monitored in Tokyo said one of two of the American pilots "tried to put on an arrogant air, but in the face of the wrath and protests of the population, all of them marched docilely, their heads bent, their faces pale and sweating with fear."

At many places, the broadcast added, "angry people" stepped forward and shouted "Down with the U.S. aggressors," "Death to the American aggressors," and "Yankee go home."

It did not disclose the exact number of American pilots. It said they included those "who had committed unpardonable crimes by bombing and strafing populated areas, economic and other public utility establishments."

The broadcast said the American pilots came from various bases in South Viet Nam, 7th Fleet carriers and Thailand and their ranks ranged from lieutenant to commander.

"The Hanoians, though seething with anger at the crimes committed by the U.S. air pirates, showed themselves to be highly disciplined, otherwise the ing with anger at the crimes might have prompted them to tear Johnson's 'skywarriors' to pieces," the broadcast added.

U.S. Science Solves Space Fuel Problem

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla., (AP) — After years of engineering headaches, it appears that U.S. scientists have harnessed liquid hydrogen as a high-energy rocket fuel for man-to-the-moon and other space missions.

The breakthrough came Tuesday when America's heaviest satellite a 29-ton rocket stage, hurdled around the globe for three orbits while ground stations monitored the behavior of 10 tons of hydrogen packed in the fuel tank.

Throughout this 4½-hour period, the hydrogen performed better than expected, thanks to a unique system of small rockets and gas vents that created a tiny thrust to keep the fuel positioned in the bottom of the 64,000-gallon tank, at the end of the engine.

Under weightless conditions on previous tests with smaller rockets, the fuel had a tendency to curl into a ball, climb the walls of the tank or vaporize.

When the thrust was removed on command for brief periods Tuesday, the hydrogen reacted to its weightless world, forming into small globules that floated in the empty portion at the top of the tank, at times obscuring the view of a television camera that relayed pictures to the ground.

Under great acceleration by larger rockets, the liquid bubbled in its frigid chamber, where temperatures of 423 degrees below zero were needed to keep the hydrogen in a liquid state.

Calling It Dollar

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — In converting its currency from the British pound to the U. S. decimal system, the Bahamas government decided to name the basic monetary unit a dollar.

Rejected were these suggested names: conch, carib, Bolivar, colon, cruzeira, sol, peso, suzre, wahoo, crown, cay, angel, nobel, sovereign, mark and sand.

Said one official: "I cannot imagine what the old lady of Mars Bay Andros, would say if she was told that her chickens or her pig had sold for 'three wahoos' or 'five conchs' and 'two cays.'"

But each time, when the gentle thrust was applied, the hydrogen settled to the bottom, with hardly a ripple on the surface, demonstrating that the engine could have been restarted—a must for manned lunar-landing flights.

A second start of the satellite engine was not attempted Tuesday because the rocket stage was fitted to handle an excess amount of hydrogen in order to give ground stations a greater opportunity to observe this volatile fuel.

A Saturn 1 rocket, most powerful yet launched by the United States, boosted its second stage into space as the test laboratory. This second stage, which fired its engine to attain orbital speed, is the same as the rocket which will form the third stage of the mammoth Saturn 5 rocket that will hurl Project Apollo astronauts on moon journeys.

On a moon shot, the Saturn 5 third stage will have to coast around the globe for up to three orbits—as the satellite did Tuesday—then restart its engine at the desired time and location to provide the final thrust for the astronauts.

Hydrogen is 40 per cent more powerful than conventional liquid fuels. Without it, the Saturn 5 would not have enough power to send the heavy 92,000-pound Apollo craft to the moon.

The success of the Saturn 1 also provided NASA with confidence to move ahead with two key shots later this year, both using this booster. An unmanned Apollo moonship is to be launched on a test flight in August. If that flight is okay, the first three-man Apollo crew may ride into earth orbit in November to check out all space-craft systems for up to 14 days.

After three orbits Tuesday, ground stations concluded their major tests with the satellite. It is expected to re-enter the atmosphere and burn up Saturday.

Omaha Hopes Racial Tension Has Cooled Off

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — At the city hall, the weary mayor watched the pounding rain and muttered: "Maybe this will cool things off."

And it may have. Two miles from city hall on the near North Side, a tentative peace followed the rain.

The drenching cooled the black, steamy pavement of North 24th Street, greened up lawns in front of closely spaced old houses, and freshened flowers that bloomed along shabby backstreets.

Only the workaday traffic moved in and out of a huge parking lot where bottles and stones flew during three nights of the Fourth of July weekend disorders.

Along North 24th Street, which for some 36 blocks is the

Rhodes Seeks 1968 Parley Of Nation's Governors

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes was prepared today to launch a campaign which would bring the 1968 National Governors' Conference to Cincinnati.

Rhodes disclosed his plan Wednesday night after reporting that governors of a dozen other midwest states agreed to a joint effort to obtain more federal defense contracts for the midwest.

He and Bill Dempsey of the Cincinnati Convention Bureau

15 Whites Are Held in Death Case

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)— The arrest total mounted today in the slaying of two Negroes by shotgun blasts from a moving car in a Sacramento slum area. Police reported 15 young white men were in custody.

Except to say that they did not believe the killings were racially motivated, the police chief and the chief deputy district attorney gave only scanty details of the crime and the names, ages and addresses of the arrested men.

Most of those arrested were in their teens or early 20s.

Police Chief Joseph Rooney said U.S. Supreme Court decisions protecting the rights of defendants prohibited pretrial discussions by investigating officers.

Robert Puglia, Sacramento County chief deputy district attorney, also has said that he can not ascribe any motive.

Police arrested three men in towns across the Sacramento River from the California capital city within an hour after the shooting Tuesday night. Another six were arrested Wednesday and six Wednesday night.

Killed as they stood on opposite sides of a street in Old Sacramento were Harry Brown, 51, and Ernest Martin, 42. Police would not say if the victims knew each other. They were described as transients.

Judge Sees 'Vendetta' in Huge Lawsuit

CINCINNATI (AP)—A lawsuit for $133.2 million in damages—one of the largest ever filed here—has been dismissed in U.S. District Court.

Judge John W. Peck dismissed the suit Wednesday, describing it as a "personal vendetta" against two insurance companies.

The suit, filed by attorney Robert Bednarczuk of Lebanon, Ohio, in behalf of Mrs. Shirley Estes and her children, said she had been treated unfairly by two insurance companies and Judge Frank M. Gusweiler of Hamilton County Common Pleas Court. Mrs. Estes was injured in two traffic accidents and received a $22,000 settlement in Judge Gusweiler's court.

The suit listed as defendants the insurance companies, Judge Gusweiler, Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio and U. S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach.

Judge Peck said the complaint represented Bednarczuk's "personal vendetta against the companies and Judge Gusweiler" rather than an attempt to recover damages for the plaintiffs.

Lemonade Extinguishes Fire from Firecracker

ROACHDALE Ind. (AP) — Authorities say a firecracker apparently was responsible for a fire which destroyed three tents and caused an estimated $3,500 damage during a Lions Club fish fry in downtown Roachdale.

Since it was the handiest liquid available, firemen used buckets of lemonade to extinguish the blaze.

Ag Picture Said Better

Farmers Union Views Detailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Tony T. Dechant of the National Farmers Union says the voice of the Agriculture Department in farm policy matters has been restored by the Johnson administration.

Because of this, he said, favorable government action on farm price and income stabilization is expected on a broadening front.

The farm leader made the statement in commenting favorably on the action of Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman last week in raising milk price supports.

Dechant and other farm leaders including members of Congress, criticized administration actions during the winter and spring seeking to halt food and farm price advances.

Those actions included increase in cheese imports, Defense Department reductions in pork purchases as well as a shift from butter to margarine in service diets, restrictions on exports of animal hides and skins and heavy sales of government grains.

Some critics of these actions blamed the White House, asserting Freeman had been ignored. There were no words or actions indicating Freeman either opposed or favored them.

But the statement by Dechant, long a supporter of the secretary, indicated the White House may have ignored the Agriculture Department on a number of the price decisions.

"We view" Dechant said, "the increase in dairy supports as solid evidence that this spring's unfortunate interlude with so-called 'anti-inflationary' actions to depress farm prices has ended."

Yes, said those who met with the governor. But Jema Livingstone, 19, watching the 24th Street traffic a couple of days after the disorders, said, "Them fellows were looking for a way to attract attention" — a way to focus attention on their demands.

S.C. Hodge, 70, a retired packinghouse worker, said his old employer called him recently in search of five young men to fill $2.72-an-hour jobs. He could only find three takers despite an announcement he made in church, said Hodge.

Omaha Urban League officials have estimated the city's Negro unemployment rate at 10 to 15 per cent, although Omaha University economist Larry Danton has said "There is no reason to believe the Negro unemployment rate is any different in Omaha than it is nationally" — 7 to 9 per cent.

Stewart, of the Urban League, says Omaha has none a good job in the fields of jobs and education, but in housing "it hasn't done a thing."

The North Side ghetto was expanded, and on its outer limits to the west and north are newer homes with bigger yards. There are several public housing projects including a 12-story residence for the elderly.

But in older areas there are shabby, rundown houses.

The Ford tri-motor aircraft known as "Old No. 11" has been sold by Arizona Airmotive Corp. of Island Airlines at Port Clinton, Ohio.

It will fly passengers from Port Clinton to islands in Lake Erie across from Dearborn, Mich. where it was made in 1928.

"No. 11" has been all over North and South America and in recent years has been used to fly passengers and cargo from Mazatlan, Mexico, to a gold and silver mine at Toyotita, about 60 miles away.

Island Airlines has two other tri-motors carrying passengers to South Bass Island, Middle Bass, and Rattlesnake Islands in Lake Erie about nine miles from shore.

19 Ex-GOP Solons Try for Comeback

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nineteen former Republican congressmen, many of them pro-Goldwater conservatives, are making comeback attempts this year against Democrats who were elected to the House two years ago in the Johnson landslide.

Thirteen are running against the same Democrats who defeated them in 1964 and 16 of the 19 are competing in districts considered marginal because the incumbent Democrat won with less than 55 per cent of the vote.

Some Democratic strategists admit it will be an uphill fight to retain these seats, as well as the 47 other marginal districts the party now holds. Most of these were won in 1964 in areas which had been Republican for years.

In contrast, only one former Democratic House member — Charles O. Porter of Oregon — is trying to regain his seat. He is seeking the post being vacated by Rep. Robert B. Duncan, who is running for the Senate.

While the return to Washington of the 19 former GOP congressmen would not endanger the Democrats' 294-139 numerical majority, it could cut heavily into the party's working majority.

Because most Republicans frequently vote with Southern Democrats against administration domestic programs, replacement of 20 to 30 pro-administration Democrats by conservative Republicans could erase majorities for such controversial programs as the National Teachers Corps and rent supplements.

In five primaries this year, conservative former congressmen have overcome opposition of moderate Republicans. The five are Steven B. Derounian and John R. Pillion of New York, Gene Snyder of Kentucky, George A. Goodling of Pennsylvania and Peter A. Garland of Maine.

Snyder is running in Kentucky's new 4th District against a pro-administration state senator, John J. Moloney, while Garland is seeking the normally Republican seat being relinquished by moderate GOP Rep. Stanley R. Tupper. Tupper defeated Garland in 1962 when their districts were combined due to reapportionment.

Derounian, Pillion and Goodling face the Democrats who defeated them two years ago — Reps. Lester L. Wolff, Richard D. McCarthy and N. Neiman Craley Jr.

Ohio Taxes To Be Boosted, If All Demands Met, Claim

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Every family in Ohio would have to shell out about $500 more a year in state taxes to meet the demands of the states' "professional spending groups," Finance Director Richard Krabach says.

Krabach made that estimate Wednesday and said meeting those demands would have a total price tag of $1.3 billion in new revenue, or an average of about $700 a year per family.

Each family now pays an average of $200 a year in state taxes, he said.

Welfare demands alone call for increases of $207 million a year above present Ohio spending of $255 million, he said. But Krabach did not say whether this would include federal subsidies which now total 50-60 per cent of the $255 million.

He also made no reference to an earlier estimate by State Welfare Director Denver L. White that it would cost about $34 million a year to increase welfare payments from 78 per cent of the state's own standards.

Krabach listed other estimated demands of $890 million more for education, $50.5 million in state salary boosts, $41 million in mental hygiene and youth commission requests and $131.5 million more for local governments.

He mentioned several alternate means of raising the additional money. They were a 13-16 per cent increase in the state sales tax, a 4 1/2 per cent income tax without exemptions, a 7 1/2 per cent income tax using federal income tax exemptions, a 6 per cent payroll tax, of "a state income tax higher than California's."

Krabach gave his figures in a prepared statement which he also released at the National's Governors' Conference Wednesday in Los Angeles. He said in the statement:

"We are determined to prevent financial chaos in Ohio and consequently must defend the taxpayer against the tax spender. With inflation running rampant in the country, we must preserve our fiscal position just as every housewife must do."

Gun-Toting Hubby-Slayer Pleads Guilty

CINCINNATI (AP) — Mrs. Pauline Hamilton, 36, Cincinnati pleaded guilty Wednesday to a charge of first degree manslaughter in the slaying of her husband, but her attorney claimed she was carrying a shotgun for self protection.

Common Pleas Judge Ralph B. Kohlen deferred sentencing pending a probation investigation.

Mrs. Hamilton's husband, Wilbur, 48, was shot to death last April 23.

Bernard Gilday Jr., attorney for Mrs. Hamilton, said she took the shotgun with her for protection when she went to search for her husband. She found him coming out of a cafe with another woman and Hamilton was shot during an ensuing scuffle.

Gilday claimed Hamilton had beaten his wife severely earlier that day.

Omaha Hopes Racial Tension Has Cooled Off

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — At the city hall, the weary mayor watched the pounding rain and muttered: "Maybe this will cool things off."

And it may have. Two miles from city hall on the near North Side, a tentative peace followed the rain.

The drenching cooled the black, steamy pavement of North 24th Street, greened up lawns in front of closely spaced old houses, and freshened flowers that bloomed along shabby backstreets.

Only the workaday traffic moved in and out of a huge parking lot where bottles and stones flew during three nights of the Fourth of July weekend disorders.

Along North 24th Street, which for some 36 blocks is the north-south axis of the near North Side, glass had been shattered display windows had been swept away. Here and there were store fronts patched with sheets of plywood.

But how much heat of resentment and frustration lingered behind drab facades remained to be seen.

"A lot," said a young Air Force veteran. "Those kids were just doing what their elders wish they had the guts to do."

Ag Picture Said Better Farmers Union Views Detailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Tony T. Dechant of the National Farmers Union says the voice of the Agriculture Department in farm policy matters has been restored by the Johnson administration.

Because of this, he said, favorable government action on farm price and income stabilization is expected on a broadening front.

The farm leader made the statement in commenting favorably on the action of Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman last week in raising milk price supports.

Dechant and other farm leaders including members of Congress, criticized administration actions during the winter and spring seeking to halt food and farm price advances.

Those actions included increase in cheese imports, Defense Department reductions in pork purchases as well as a shift from butter to margarine in service diets, restrictions on exports of animal hides and skins and heavy sales of government grains.

Some critics of these actions blamed the White House, asserting Freeman had been ignored. There were no words or actions indicating Freeman either opposed or favored them.

But the statement by Dechant, long a supporter of the secretary, indicated the White House may have ignored the Agriculture Department on a number of the price decisions.

"We view" Dechant said, "the increase in dairy supports as solid evidence that this spring's unfortunate interlude with so-called 'anti-inflationary' actions to depress farm prices has ended."

Dechant said he was carrying a shotgun for self protection.

Stewart, of the Urban League, says Omaha has none of a good job in the fields of jobs and education, but in housing "it hasn't done a thing."

The North Side ghetto was expanded, and on its outer limits to the west and north are newer homes with bigger yards. There are several public housing projects including a 12-story residence for the elderly.

But in older areas there are shabby, rundown houses.

Omaha Urban League officials have estimated the city's Negro unemployment rate at 16 to 15 per cent, although Omaha University economist Larry Danton has said "There is no reason to believe the Negro unemployment rate is any different in Omaha than it is nationally" — 7 to 9 per cent.

The suit, filed by attorney Robert Bednarczuk of Lebanon, Ohio, in behalf of Mrs. Shirley Estes and her children, said she had been treated unfairly by two insurance companies and Judge Frank M. Gusweiler of Hamilton County Common Pleas Court. Mrs. Estes was injured in two traffic accidents and received a $22,000 settlement in Judge Gusweiler's court.

The suit listed as defendants the insurance companies, Judge Gusweiler, Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio and U. S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach.

Judge Peck said the complaint represented Bednarczuk's "personal vendetta against the companies and Judge Gusweiler" rather than an attempt to recover damages for the plaintiffs.

Rhodes Seeks 1968 Parley Of Nation's Governors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes was prepared today to launch a campaign which would bring the 1968 National Governors' Conference to Cincinnati.

Rhodes disclosed his plan Wednesday night after reporting that governors of a dozen other midwest states agreed to a joint effort to obtain more federal defense contracts for the midwest.

He and Bill Dempsey of the Cincinnati Convention Bureau

planned to talk with members of the current conference's site selection committee.

The 1967 conference already has been set for the Virgin Islands in 1967.

Rhodes held a news conference Wednesday after he and other midwest governors agreed at a luncheon to make united appeals to Washington, not only for more defense contracts, but also for additional funds to finance state welfare and other programs. He noted that California alone gets more defense contracts than all midwest states combined.

"We're discriminated against in the midwest," Rhodes said. Rhodes also announced that Gov. Roger Branigan of Indiana will be chairman of an economic and tourist development tour down the Ohio River beginning Aug. 1.

Rhodes and the governors of two other Ohio River states — Kentucky and Illinois — worked out preliminary plans for the tour at the Midwest Governors' Conference in Cincinnati last month.

Two other Ohio River states which are not members of the midwest conference, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, will be invited to participate in the tour, Rhodes said.

Judge Peck said the complaint represented Bednarczuk's "personal vendetta against the companies and Judge Gusweiler" rather than an attempt to recover damages for the plaintiffs.

Most of those arrested were in their teens or early 20s.

Police Chief Joseph Rooney said U.S. Supreme Court decisions protecting the rights of defendants prohibited pretrial discussions by investigating officers.

Robert Puglia, Sacramento County chief deputy district attorney, also has said that he can not ascribe any motive.

Police arrested three men in towns across the Sacramento River from the California capital city within an hour after the shooting Tuesday night. Another six were arrested Wednesday and six Wednesday night.

Killed as they stood on opposite sides of a street in Old Sacramento were Harry Brown, 51, and Ernest Martin, 42. Police would not say if the victims knew each other. They were described as transients.

Castle Gardens at Stade Described by Mrs. Harden

THE VON SALDERN GARDENS AT STADE — Mrs. Dietrich Von Saldern (right), and her niece, Dorothy escort their visitor from Circleville (Sally Harden) through the castle gardens. The ancient German castle is prominent in the background. Note the tall spires of lupine that grew in every color.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Mrs. Ned Harden promised to write about some of the outstanding gardens she visited on the continent as a member of the Rotary tour. She and her husband were guests of a German family who had extensive gardens. Mrs. Harden says trees, shrubs and plants there were identical with things grown in this part of Ohio. This is the first of a series of several articles about European gardens.

By SALLY HARDEN
When we arrived at Stade we were taken to the castle of Mr. and Mrs. Dietrich Von Saldern to spend the night.
The land has been in Mrs. Von Saldern's family for 1,500 years. I was fascinated by her garden.
There were many, many rose beds filled with floribundas and hybrid teas. Here were also many beds filled with very old roses that I have never seen.

In the garden was a small lake with swans swimming and almost surrounding the lake were huge rhododendrons. They were all colors and so large they were no longer bushes but trees.

ON ONE of the tall chimneys of the castle was a huge stork's nest.

Storks are supposed to bring much luck to a house. The Salderns had cut a huge branch from a nearby tree so the large bird could go in and out more easily.

In the garden, or I should say, gardens, were iris, daisies, delphinium, tulips, astelbe, fern and all colors of lupine. The holly is lovely here and the landscape contains about the same type of plants that ours have.

They pay no attention to color combinations and often have purple, red, yellow and blue all in the same planting. There is so much color that you forget it is a bizarre mixture.

Each home regardless of size has a vegetable garden. They raise everything we do except corn.

We visited several homes for meals and all are filled with flowers. There is no attempt to arrange them. They are put loosely in round bowls or urn-type containers.

GERMAN citizens have wonderful house plants. They grow all the common ones we have and also the exotic ones such as bromeliads, orchids, anthurums, etc. I believe every German woman must be blessed with a green thumb.

Since most of the houses are very, very old they are close to the streets so they use many flower boxes. They are filled with geraniums and they mix all shades in the same container.

They have plenty of rain and seldom have to water anything.

Mrs. Von Saldern was pleased to find I knew the names of her flowers. Though the spelling is the same, the pronunciation is different.

Mr. Von Saldern was very proud of his 12,000 apple trees. They are planted much closer together than in Ohio and a dwarf variety is sometimes planted under a larger type to conserve space.

He says they must fertilize quite heavily for the land has been used so many centuries. They use a commercial fertilizer much like we use in our gardening and farming.

AS YOU drive along the autobahn (the German freeway), wild lupine grows in great waves of blue.

There are no billboards or junk yards, just very clean, very neat German houses and gardens.

You see no weeds in the gardens and much peat is used for mulch.

We go to Switzerland next and I am anxious to see if they do things in the garden a different way from their German neighbors.

Tibetan Bulb Doing Well For Neffs

When Mrs. Pete Neff, 126 W. High St., was visiting her sister, Mrs. Benny Cook, in Ansonia, O., last year she was more than intrigued by a handsome plant with an enormous spherical flowerhead as big as an indoor baseball. Its color was a magical shade of violet.

Alice Neff told her sister that as soon as the bulb multiplied she wanted a start of the flower which Mrs. Cook called Jewel of Tibet, Mrs. Cook promised.

Then on Mrs. Neff's December birthday the bulb arrived. It was duly planted on Dec. 31 and one of the neighbors took part.

Mrs. Neff said the planting directions suggested peat moss. None could be found in the stores at that season. So Nolan Sims Jr. collected some from off his own rose bushes and presented it to the Neffs.

EARLY in the spring wide lily-like foliage appeared. When the bloom stalk was about six inches high it developed a little ball, making it look very much like an onion to the Neffs. The bloom stalk eventually developed in a four-foot stem with a spherical indoor baseball sized flowerhead in a pleasing shade of violet.

It held its color for almost three weeks. The bloom stalk was strong and sturdy and needed no staking. It has actually come through a couple of severe wind storms.

The Neffs were wondering whether or not to cut off the seed head. Many gardeners do. The spherical seed head is much sought after by arrangers for their dried bouquets.

This choice allium is actually a native bulb of Tibet and is reliably hardy. High Street neighbors have taken a definite interest in the Neff's Jewel of Tibet. It is a beautiful and unusual bulb.

Brehmer Says

Trees and shrubs planted last fall or this spring are suffering from this extra dry weather. To survive, they must get a generous watering, until there is a good heavy rain.

Evergreens are slow to show the effect of dry roots. When they show, it usually is too late.

To get best results, it is suggested to place the outlet of the hose at the base of the tree or shrub and adjust the water to just a trickle and leave it long enough for a good soaking deep down.

Make a basin to catch the water by digging out or fashion a levee around to keep the water from running off.

ARTESIA, N. M. (AP) — Usually, a state police car discourages thieves. But not so with Officer Lesley Dudley's car. Recently, someone took a personal radio from his cruiser parked in front of his Artesia home.

Then, three nights later when the cruiser was parked in front of the Artesia Fire Department building, someone took the car keys.

Dudley didn't think the latter act very funny.

"I put the car out of commission," he declared, "because all extra keys have to come from Santa Fe (state capital) and the entire switch has to be changed."

Garden Gossip

Mrs. G. Guy Campbell, 141 W. Franklin St., won several awards on dried arrangements last year. Several of them contained salsify seed heads which she has lightly sprayed with paint of different colors. Tricky business, but well worthwhile!

If you wish the seed heads in natural color, spray with clear plastic. It will help them stay intact.

Salsify is in abundance along the N&W tracks near Western Ave. between W. High and W. Main St.

Salsify, like the dandelion which it resembles, can be a weed nuisance. When you are finished with them be sure to burn the heads.

G. Guy Campbell fed and tamed a couple of W. Franklin St. squirrels. Recently he has been quite ill but Friday he was out on the porch. Visitors? Yes, one of the tame squirrels came to pay a call. There he was sitting on the porch beside Guy Campbell for all the world like a friend who had come to ask how he was progressing.

Miss Margaret Chilcote, Salt Creek School fourth grade teacher, has a wild flower project each spring and teaches her students how to identify Ohio wildflowers. At my husband's trap shoot Sunday I noticed some bright red flowers. I pointed them out to two of my grandchildren who were fourth graders last year. Yes, they could identify them. They were fire pinks. Grandma had never seen the lovely red flowers before.

Mrs. Roy Dunkle, Route 1, Circleville, loves to garden. It is not her summer school teaching job that is interfering with her garden this year. Her husband says it is the drought.

"It's for sure Mrs. Dunkle is not the only one suffering for rain. It's pretty common.

But the Collis Youngs, E. Main St., have beat the rap! Their garden is reported as green and beautiful. They have installed an automatic watering device! How lucky can a garden be!

"For everything there is a Season" — as June flowers fade, along come the July bloomers. At peak of beauty this week will be the perennial sweetpea vine and the yucca plant.

Mrs. Tom Kyle, Eastmoor Ave., has an excellent specimen of this sweetpea vine. It is just covered with blossoms.

Floyd Bartley has yucca in bloom. It has a towering spire of white. I especially like yucca because it is an evergreen.

The three diffenbachia plants at the Marion DeLong home on old Route 23 are as handsome as can be. They are in large containers and in another six months will reach the ceiling.

The two DeLong youngsters have their own indoor plants which they are required to care for. Mark has a foliage plant which came in a planter sent to him when he was recuperating from his tonsillectomy last year. Mark is 8-years-old. His sister, Melody, 5, has a thriving pot of baby tears. The DeLongs have a little orange tree with both blossoms and fruit.

The Sweet William plants surrounding the Marion Hupp mailbox in Whisler have about had it. But it was a pretty sight for almost three weeks.

Mark Schumm's roses have put on a fine show the last week or two. But these roses, too, suffer from the hot, dry spell. Schumm says they are in bud one day, in flower the next and wilted on the third day.

The Schumms are enjoying their shasta daisies. Plants are now 2-years-old. The Schumm roses do so well that Mark cannot help but wish some of them would "take the trip" and leave room for him to experiment with new varieties. The Schumms live at 580 N. Pickaway St.

Butterfly weed so beautiful in July all over Ohio is a garden plant of excellence. Laurelville gardens abound in this bright orange flower. Robert Jones, Route 4, had two clumps in his flower bed. One clump was 15 inches high and in bud. The other clump he thought dead. However, it peaked through the ground last week and is growing rapidly.

I shall always think of Stoutsville when I see Gilla or standing cypress. How much it would add to our gardens in July if we could get it started like Stoutsville gardeners have done. My luck does not seem to hold with this biennial. I have had several plants that did not make it through the winter.

Ruth Montelius, Pioneer Acres, specializes in hybrid tea roses—her mother in floribundas. Ruth's roses are carefully labeled.

Ruth's latest project is roses in containers. She has four made from big wooden barrels cut in half. She has planted a rose bush in each and surrounded the roses with petunias. These will give color to the shady patio near their house.

A project of Mrs. Harry Montelius is a planting of tuberous begonias. These glamorous flowers love shade and this Mrs. Montelius gives them.

Mrs. Nelson Bowers, Route 1, has been able to water her roses and they are in full blossom. She has never had finer ones but her husband says they too find the roses do not last long in this very hot weather.

Mrs. Ida Mitchell, W. High St., told the Pete Neffs that the June Schaff Flower Shop in Columbus once had an arrangement of nothing but big heads of Jewel of Tibet. Mrs. Mitchell says the arrangement was most

Evansville Woman Is Named 'Best Arranger of Decade'

Mrs. Orrion Kattman, 810 College Highway, Evansville, Ind., won the title of "Best Arranger of the Decade" at the Sterling Bowl Tournament at Jackson and Perkins Rose Gardens.

Because this is its 10th year as the only national flower arranging competition in existence, the tournament had as contestants this June winners of former Sterling Bowl Tournaments.

Mrs. Kattman had won first place and the $5,000 perpetual challenge trophy in the 1961 competition.

During 10 years of competition, 214 flower arrangers selected from more than 600 individuals nominated by state presidents of the National Council of striking and caused considerable excitement.

Jewel of Tibet is indeed a striking and exotic plant when in blossom. Several county gardeners have this flower. Mrs. Ed Fetherolf of Stringtown was the first gardener to show it to me. She has had it for several years. As the bulbs increase in number the flowers tend to decrease in size.

Miss Yvonne Drake, Laurelville gardener, grows Jewel of Tibet. Mrs. Turney Pontius had one in her garden along with the larkspur and snapdragon that made such a showing.

Castle Gardens at Stade Described by Mrs.Harden

THE VON SALTERN GARDENS AT STADE — Mrs. Dietrich Von Saldern (right), and her niece, Dorothy escort their visitor from Circleville (Sally Harden) through the castle gardens. The ancient German castle is prominent in the background. Note the tall spires of lupine that grew in every color.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Mrs. Ned Harden promised to write about some of the outstanding gardens she visited on the continent as a member of the Rotary tour. She and her husband were guests of a German family who had extensive gardens. Mrs. Harden says trees, shrubs and plants there were identical with things grown in this part of Ohio. This is the first of a series of several articles about European gardens.

By SALLY HARDEN
When we arrived at Stade we were taken to the castle of Mr. and Mrs. Dietrich Von Saldern to spend the night.
The land has been in Mrs. Von Saldern's family for 1,500 years. I was fascinated by her garden.
There were many, many rose beds filled with floribundas and hybrid teas. Here were also many beds filled with very old roses that I have never seen.

In the garden was a small lake with swans swimming and almost surrounding the lake were huge rhododendrons. They were all colors and so large they were no longer bushes but trees.

ON ONE of the tall chimneys of the castle was a huge stork's nest.

Storks are supposed to bring much luck to a house. The Salderns had cut a huge branch from a nearby tree so the large bird could go in and out more easily.

In the garden, or I should say, gardens, were iris, daisies, delphinium, tulips, astelbe, fern and all colors of lupine. The holly is lovely here and the landscape contains about the same type of plants that ours have.

They pay no attention to color combinations and often have purple, red, yellow and blue all in the same planting. There is so much color that you forget it is a bizarre mixture.

Each home regardless of size has a vegetable garden. They raise everything we do except corn.

We visited several homes for meals and all are filled with flowers. There is no attempt to arrange them. They are put loosely in round bowls or urn-type containers.

GERMAN citizens have wonderful house plants. They grow all the common ones we have and also the exotic ones such as bromeliads, orchids, anthurums, etc. I believe every German woman must be blessed with a green thumb.

Since most of the houses are very, very old they are close to the streets so they use many flower boxes. They are filled with geraniums and they mix all shades in the same container.

They have plenty of rain and seldom have to water anything.

Mrs. Von Saldern was pleased to find I knew the names of her flowers. Though the spelling is the same, the pronunciation is different.

Mr. Von Saldern was very proud of his 12,000 apple trees. They are planted much closer together than in Ohio and a dwarf variety is sometimes planted under a larger type to conserve space.

He says they must fertilize quite heavily for the land has been used so many centuries. They use a commercial fertilizer much like we use in our gardening and farming.

AS YOU drive along the autobahn (the German freeway), wild lupine grows in great waves of blue.

There are no billboards or junk yards, just very clean, very neat German houses and gardens.

You see no weeds in the gardens and much peat is used for mulch.

We go to Switzerland next and I am anxious to see if they do things in the garden a different way from their German neighbors.

Tibetan Bulb Doing Well For Neffs

When Mrs. Pete Neff, 126 W. High St., was visiting her sister, Mrs. Benny Cook, in Ansonia, O., last year she was more than intrigued by a handsome plant with an enormous spherical flowerhead as big as an indoor baseball. Its color was a magical shade of violet.

Alice Neff told her sister that as soon as the bulb multiplied she wanted a start of the flower which Mrs. Cook called Jewel of Tibet, Mrs. Cook promised.

Then on Mrs. Neff's December birthday the bulb arrived. It was duly planted on Dec. 31 and one of the neighbors took part.

Mrs. Neff said the planting directions suggested peat moss. None could be found in the stores at that season. So Nolan Sims Jr. collected some from off his own rose bushes and presented it to the Neffs.

EARLY in the spring wide lily-like foliage appeared. When the bloom stalk was about six inches high it developed a little ball, making it look very much like an onion to the Neffs. The bloom stalk eventually developed in a four-foot stem with a spherical indoor baseball sized flowerhead in a pleasing shade of violet.

It held its color for almost three weeks. The bloom stalk was strong and sturdy and needed no staking. It has actually come through a couple of severe wind storms.

The Neffs were wondering whether or not to cut off the seed head. Many gardeners do. The spherical seed head is much sought after by arrangers for their dried bouquets.

This choice allium is actually a native bulb of Tibet and is reliably hardy. High Street neighbors have taken a definite interest in the Neff's Jewel of Tibet. It is a beautiful and unusual bulb.

Brehmer Says

Trees and shrubs planted last fall or this spring are suffering from this extra dry weather. To survive, they must get a generous watering, until there is a good heavy rain.

Evergreens are slow to show the effect of dry roots. When they show, it usually is too late.

To get best results, it is suggested to place the outlet of the hose at the base of the tree or shrub and adjust the water to just a trickle and leave it long enough for a good soaking deep down.

Make a basin to catch the water by digging out or fashion a levee around to keep the water from running off.

ARTESIA, N. M. (AP) — Usually, a state police car discourages thieves. But not so with Officer Lesley Dudley's car.

Recently, someone took a personal radio from his cruiser parked in front of his Artesia home.

Then, three nights later when the cruiser was parked in front of the Artesia Fire Department building, someone took the car keys.

Dudley didn't think the latter act very funny.

"It put the car out of commission," he declared, "because all extra keys have to come from Santa Fe (state capitol) and the entire switch has to be changed."

Garden Gossip

Mrs. G. Guy Campbell, 141 W. Franklin St., won several awards on dried arrangements last year. Several of them contained salsify seed heads which she has lightly sprayed with paint of different colors. Tricky business, but well worthwhile!

If you wish the seed heads in natural color, spray with clear plastic. It will help them stay intact.

Salsify is in abundance along the N&W tracks near Western Ave. between W. High and W. Main St.

Salsify, like the dandelion which it resembles, can be a weed nuisance. When you are finished with them be sure to burn the heads.

G. Guy Campbell fed and tamed a couple of W. Franklin St. squirrels. Recently he has been quite ill but Friday he was out on the porch. Visitors? Yes, one of the tame squirrels came to pay a call. There he was sitting on the porch beside Guy Campbell for all the world like a friend who had come to ask how he was progressing.

Miss Margaret Chilcote, Salt-creek School fourth grade teacher, has a wild flower project each spring and teaches her students how to identify Ohio wildflowers. At my husband's trap shoot Sunday I noticed some bright red flowers. I pointed them out to two of my grand-children who were fourth graders last year. Yes, they could identify them. They were fire pinks. Grandma had never seen the lovely red flowers before.

Mrs. Roy Dunkle, Route 1, Circleville, loves to garden. It is not her summer school teaching job that is interfering with her garden this year. Her husband says it is the drought.

"It's for sure Mrs. Dunkle is not the only one suffering for rain. It's pretty common.

But the Collis Youngs, E. Main St., have beat the rap! Their garden is reported as green and beautiful. They have installed an automatic watering device! How lucky can a garden be!

"For everything there is a Season" — as June flowers fade, along come the July bloomers. At peak of beauty this week will be the perennial sweetpea vine and the yucca plant.

Mrs. Tom Kyle, Eastmoor Ave., has an excellent specimen of this sweetpea vine. It is just covered with blossoms.

Floyd Bartley has yucca in bloom. It has a towering spire of white. I especially like yucca because it is an evergreen.

The three diffenbachia plants at the Marion DeLong home on old Route 23 are as handsome as can be. They are in large containers and in another six months will reach the ceiling.

The two DeLong youngsters have their own indoor plants which they are required to care for. Mark has a foliage plant which came in a planter sent to him when he was recuperating from his tonsillectomy last year. Mark is 8-years-old. Evansville Woman Is Named 'Best Arranger of Decade'

Mrs. Orrion Kattman, 810 College Highway, Evansville, Ind., won the title of "Best Arranger of the Decade" at the Sterling Bowl Tournament at Jackson and Perkins Rose Gardens.

Because this is its 10th year as the only national flower arranging competition in existence, the tournament had as contestants this June winners of former Sterling Bowl Tournaments.

Mrs. Kattman had won first place and the $5,000 perpetual challenge trophy in the 1951 competition.

During 10 years of competition, 214 flower arrangers selected from more than 600 individuals nominated by state presidents of the National Council of State Garden Clubs, have competed in the 17-acre Jackson & Perkins rose garden here in the Rose Capital of America.

Seven of the 10 annual winners returned to vie for the sterling silver trophy and for the title of "the best flower arranger of the decade."

Second prize went to Mrs. Floyd Doty, 501 E. Texas, Walters, Okla., last year's winner. Third prize was awarded to Mrs. C. W. Lefe of 4133 Diskey Road, Gibsonia, Pa., 1957 winner.

Judges awarded honorable mention to each of the other four arrangers: Mrs. John W. Knight Jr., Cuyahoga Falls, 1958 winner; Mrs. John W. Minton, Roswell, N. M., 1960 winner; John C. Downing Jr., Gaffney, S. C., 1962 winner; and Mrs. E. O. Barton, Houston, Tex., 1964 winner.

The outstanding panel of judges, all nationally accredited, included Mrs. Chester Schomp of Princeton, N. J.; Mrs. Herbert Keever, Stamford, Conn.; and Mrs. Howard Kittel, Fort Worth, Tex.

Each of the seven contestants was given a piece of sterling silver by Howard T. Brenner, president of the Sterling Silver Smiths Guild of America, co-sponsor of the tournament. Charles R. Cadey, president of Jackson & Perkins Co., awarded Sterling Silver hybrid tea rose plants.

'An American Tragedy' Scene Revisited

BIG MOOSE, N.Y. (AP) — Sixty years ago next Monday on July 11, 1906, Grace Brown, a farm girl then 20 and four months pregnant, met death in Big Moose Lake in the Adirondacks, a hundred miles north-west of Albany.

The finding of her body the following day touched off one of the most celebrated murder cases in American history, forming the bases for Theodore Dreiser's literary classic, "An American Tragedy."

Actor John Wayne Tells Of Viet Nam Experiences

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Press conferences for entertainers back from Viet Nam have become a Hollywood ritual. This week it was John Wayne's turn.

Why was the event held at University City, where Wayne hasn't worked since "The Spoilers" in 1942? Reporters found out when they arrived. They were handed releases announcing that the star would appear in two Universal films, a Western called "The War Wagon" and "The Green Berets," based on the novel about the Viet Nam war.

Wayne had driven up from his home at Newport Beach, and he wore a plaid shirt, white tie, blue jacket, black slacks and blue sneakers the kind that yachtsmen wear. He sipped coffee patiently as the television

Arab Prince Due To Visit Central Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Collegiate Association on World Affairs announced today that Prince Turki Faisal of Saudi Arabia will visit central Ohio later this month.

The prince will arrive here Friday, July 22, as a guest of the council for two days. He will be honored at "salute Saudi Arabia" ceremonies which include a reception and noon luncheon, according to council spokesman Leo Savage.

On Saturday, the younger son of King Faisal will tour the Columbus area and then travel to Washington Court House to visit members of "The Cavaliers," a local musical group which recently played at a reception at the Saudi Arabian embassy in Washington, Savage said.

Auburn, near the state prison. But the years only add to the legend and folklore. It now includes two books, two motion pictures, two plays, a television program, magazine articles, student theses, a folk song and uncounted personal memories.

The case is still a popular topic among residents of the area although most of the voices are those of a generation whose only knowledge of the events was gained second hand.

Among the exceptions are John Denio of Od Forge, now 86, believed to be the only witness to testify at the trial who is still alive, and Roy C. Higby, owner of a resort on Big Moose Lake, who discovered the body though the fact was not revealed until years later.

Gillette, slender and coldly handsome, met Grace Brown at his uncle's shirt factory in Cortland, in central New York, where both were employed.

He had been a drifter until he moved to Cortland, where he soon became a rising young man in his uncle's business.

He became attracted to Grace. In June 1906, she returned to her farm home in South Otselic, pregnant and beset by fears and doubts.

Early in July, Gillette, who saw his future threatened by the prospects of a "socially unacceptable" marriage, told Grace to meet him on Sunday in the little town of DeRuyter and they would go away for a few days and be married. Gillette, carrying a straw, monogrammed suitcase, registered at the Tabor House there as "Charles George, N.Y." He apparently had decided on a course of action.

On Tuesday, they took the train to Tupper Lake, north of Big Moose, where he registered as "Charles George and wife." It was Grace Brown's last night alive.

John Denio, then 26 and a wagon driver for the Hotel Glenmore, had gone to the station at Big Moose Wednesday morning to pick up mail and baggage.

"After the train pulled up from Tupper, they got off and stood by the station looking at a little map," said Denio. "Jim McAllister, another driver, asked them if they were going to the hotel and Gillette said he didn't know."

"Then he asked if the Glenmore was close to the lake and if they had boats. Jim said they did."

"Gillette said 'any damn old place will do,'" Denio related. "The next noon they found the boat, and her coat and his hat with the lining torn out, on the south bay in Big Moose," he said.

"They arrested him over at the old Arrowhead Inn, not the present one," Denio said. "He was there three nights before they caught him and I had to go over and identify him."

In his office on the shore of Big Moose Lake, Roy Higby applied a match to his pipe one day recently, leaned back and told his story.

Higby was 13 at the time and working at the Glenmore for his uncle, Dwight B. Sperry, who owned the hotel.

"On July 11, 1906, a young man and an attractive young lady came to the Glenmore on the backboard, arriving about noon, and registered as 'Carl Graham of Albany and Grace Brown of South Otselic,'" he said.

"The couple had lunch at the hotel and shortly rented a boat," he said. "Graham as he was then known to us, took with him his suitcase, tennis racket, top coat and umbrella. The woman left her bag and jacket and purse in the bedroom at the Glenmore. This was the last seen of them together."

HER 17TH IS FREE — Mrs. Maurice Bowler, 40, looks real happy as she leaves Southern Baptist Hospital in New Orleans, La., with her newest daughter. The daughter is her 17th baby, all delivered at Southern Baptist. So she was "on the house."

In other business, the board adopted a resolution approving a budget of $582,251.87 for the coming year. The budget will be submitted to the Pickaway County Budget Commission for further approval.

High school teachers who resigned include Carole Yetter, Edson Yetter, James Colville and Owen Duncan. Linda Siverling, elementary teacher at Pickaway and Washington Schools, also resigned.

VACANCIES exist in the high school faculty in the commercial department, social studies, English, boys physical education and football.

An advance draw of $40,000 was approved to cover the payroll for July.

Effective July 1, the salary of Miss Hazel Williams, secretary at Logan Elm High School will be increased.

Janitors at Pickaway, Washington and the high school will receive salary increases ranging from $10 to $20 a month effective Jan. 1, 1967.

Two year contracts for bus drivers were awarded to Jerry Wolford and Russell Congrove. Winfield Koch was given a one-year contract as a driver.

The board will accept sealed bids on a truck the school plans to sell.

Chester E. Gillette, 23, an ordinary murderer, was later executed and has long since vanished into an unmarked grave in Auburn, near the state prison. But the years only add to the legend and folklore. It now includes two books, two motion pictures, two plays, a television program, magazine articles, student theses, a folk song and uncounted personal memories.

The case is still a popular topic among residents of the area although most of the voices are those of a generation whose only knowledge of the events was gained second hand.

Among the exceptions are John Denio of Od Forge, now 86, believed to be the only witness to testify at the trial who is still alive, and Roy C. Higby, owner of a resort on Big Moose Lake, who discovered the body though the fact was not revealed until years later.

Gillette, slender and coldly handsome, met Grace Brown at his uncle's shirt factory in Cortland, in central New York, where both were employed.

He had been a drifter until he moved to Cortland, where he soon became a rising young man in his uncle's business.

He became attracted to Grace. In June 1906, she returned to her farm home in South Otselic, pregnant and beset by fears and doubts.

Early in July, Gillette, who saw his future threatened by the prospects of a "socially unacceptable" marriage, told Grace to meet him on Sunday in the little town of DeRuyter and they would go away for a few days and be married. Gillette, carrying a straw, monogrammed suitcase, registered at the Tabor House there as "Charles George, N.Y." He apparently had decided on a course of action.

On Tuesday, they took the train to Tupper Lake, north of Big Moose, where he registered as "Charles George and wife." It was Grace Brown's last night alive.

John Denio, then 26 and a wagon driver for the Hotel Glenmore, had gone to the station at Big Moose Wednesday morning to pick up mail and baggage.

"After the train pulled up from Tupper, they got off and stood by the station looking at a little map," said Denio. "Jim McAllister, another driver, asked them if they were going to the hotel and Gillette said he didn't know."

"Then he asked if the Glenmore was close to the lake and if they had boats. Jim said they did."

"Gillette said 'any damn old place will do,'" Denio related.

"The next noon they found the boat, and her coat and his hat with the lining torn out, on the south bay in Big Moose," he said.

"They arrested him over at the old Arrowhead Inn, not the present one," Denio said. "He was there three nights before they caught him and I had to go over and identify him."

In his office on the shore of Big Moose Lake, Roy Higby applied a match to his pipe one day recently, leaned back and told his story.

Higby was 13 at the time and working at the Glenmore for his uncle, Dwight B. Sperry, who owned the hotel.

"On July 11, 1906, a young man and an attractive young lady came to the Glenmore on the backboard, arriving about noon, and registered as 'Carl Graham of Albany and Grace Brown of South Otselic,'" he said.

"The couple had lunch at the hotel and shortly rented a boat," he said. "Graham as he was then known to us, took with him his suitcase, tennis racket, top coat and umbrella. The woman left her bag and jacket and purse in the bedroom at the Glenmore. This was the last seen of them together."

The boat was found the next day floating up the south shore of Big South Bay, a straw hat floating nearby.

At first it was believed both had drowned, Higby recalled. A search was organized "but my mother told me not to go out with the men to drag for the bodies but to remain on the steamer with the engineer, Frank Crabbe."

He said he stayed aboard the steamer while about 15 men in small boats dragged the lake using homemade gang fish-hooks.

Looking over the side of the boat through hands cupped against the sun, Higby said I saw a light blur on the bottom of the lake.

He said he called it to Crabbe's attention and "Frank took a long pike pole, like loggers use, off the roof of the cabin and started to probe the water with it. For several minutes Frank used this pole, trying to convince himself that the white blur was not the anchor bag, as he thought at first."

"He finally called in the men in the boats and a hooked line was dropped, which caught onto a part of the girl's dress and she was brought to the surface," he said.

He said he noted her forehead was badly cut and that he became sick.

Higby said his father told him not to talk about the case to anyone, and "all through the investigation and subsequent trial, my name was kept out of it."

Gillette claimed that Grace had jumped into the lake and drowned after he told her he would not marry her.

Actor John Wayne Tells Of Viet Nam Experiences

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Press conferences for entertainers back from Viet Nam have become a Hollywood ritual. This week it was John Wayne's turn.

Why was the event held at University City, where Wayne hasn't worked since "The Spoilers" in 1942? Reporters found out when they arrived. They were handed releases announcing that the star would appear in two Universal films, a Western called "The War Wagon" and "The Green Berets," based on the novel about the Viet Nam war.

Wayne had driven up from his home at Newport Beach, and he wore a plaid shirt, white tie, blue jacket, black slacks and blue sneakers the kind that yachtsmen wear. He sipped coffee patiently as the television cameramen set up for the conference.

Finally his patience ran out and he called "Roll 'em'."

Actor George Chandler, chairman of the Hollywood Overseas Committee, lauded Wayne's performance in Viet Nam. He said that Wayne was the first to volunteer when the Defense Department asked for stars to visit the war a year ago.

"I'm having a little battle of my own," wrote Wayne, who was then recovering from a cancer operation, "but I'll go as soon as the doctors let me."

He went last month for three weeks of talking to the troops in hospitals bases and on carriers. No song-and-dance man, he Wayne made little of his publicized exposure to Viet Cong gunfire.

"I wasn't conscious there was any (Viet Cong) in the area until the Marines went into action," he said. "They did find a bicycle that the sniper had been using."

Wayne called upon his movie background to describe the war. In some respects it was like a Western, he said.

"I visited places that were like fortresses or outposts," he remarked. "The Vietnamese live there, along with a few Americans. The Vietnamese also bring their dependents. I was at one post where the Viet Cong had bombed the dependents the week before. Thirty out of 60 were killed."

Arab Prince Due To Visit Central Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Collegiate Association on World Affairs announced today that Prince Turki Faisal of Saudi Arabia will visit central Ohio later this month.

The prince will arrive here Friday, July 22, as a guest of the council for two days. He will be honored at "salute Saudi Arabia" ceremonies which include a reception and noon luncheon, according to council spokesman Leo Savage.

On Saturday, the younger son of King Faisal will tour the Columbus area and then travel to Washington Court House to visit members of "The Cavaliers," a local musical group which recently played at a reception at the Saudi Arabian embassy in Washington, Savage said.

Osteen Wins 1-0 Verdict Over Redlegs

Dodger Pitcher
Allows 3 Hits,
Drives in Run

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Take a strong arm, add lots of pressure and a portion of self help and you have a Los Angeles Dodger pitcher, Claude Osteen fits the formula perfectly.

Osteen won his sixth game by a one-run margin this season Wednesday night — 1-0 against Cincinnati — and he drove in the run.

In bringing his record to 11-6, Osteen allowed the Reds just three hits and went 2-for-2 to raise his average to .261 with 12 hits in 46 at bats. One of his two singles drove home John Kennedy in the eighth inning. In two of his other one-run decisions, Osteen, who now has three RBI, scored the winning run.

"This is the best first half I've ever had," Osteen said after gaining his second shutout of the year. "I've always pitched a lot better the second half of the season than I did the first."

Last year at this time Osteen was only 6-10, but he closed with a rush to finish at 15-15. Coming through with key hits is nothing new for Los Angeles pitchers. Don Drysdale has done it many times in his career, so has Sandy Koufax, a notoriously poor hitter, and rookie Don Sutton is catching on fast. Sutton is hitting .271.

Willie Mays smashed a three-run homer to give San Francisco a 3-2 victory over St. Louis and kept the Giants 1½ games ahead of second place Pittsburgh, which trounced Chicago 10-5 for its 10th victory in the last 13 games.

The New York Mets beat Philadelphia 7-5 and Atlanta walloped Houston 8-1 in other National League games.

In the American League, Boston defeated the New York Yankees 5-3 and 5-4, California nipped Detroit 10 in 10 innings, Minnesota edged Cleveland 4-3, Washington downed the Chicago White Sox 4-3 and 3-2 and Baltimore split with Kansas City, winning the opener 11-0 and losing the nightcap 9-8 in 11 innings.

Mays' 524th career homer and 19th this season, came off relief pitcher Don Dennis with two men out in the eighth. It left him 10 behind Jimmy Foxx who hit 534 homers, second only to Babe Ruth's 714.

Roberto Clemente doubled home two runs and drove in three more with his 13th homer in the Pirates' victory. Donn Clendenon also got his 13th homer and fourth in as many games for the Pirates, a two run shot.

Jack Hamilton picked up his eighth save in his last 11 appearances for New York. Ed Kranepool knocked in three runs with a pair of doubles for the Mets, who exploded for four runs in the seventh inning. Philie pitcher Jim Bunning was forced to leave the game in the sixth with a pulled groin muscle. He has an 11-1 record against the Mets.

Joe Torre hit his 21st homer and an RBI single and Mack Jones homered and tripled for the Braves. Don Schwall, making his first start since being traded to Atlanta by Pittsburgh, worked 6 1-3 innings for the victory.

Accuracy, Not Power, Seen Key in Tough British Open

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) —If the big hitters of golf are finding it hard to take Muirfield in the British Open championship, the reason may be that Muirfield decided to take them in advance.

That belief was voiced today by Byron Nelson, the Texan who won virtually everything in sight from 1939 to 1943 and still holds the record of sweeping 11 straight tournaments.

Nelson, a spectator on these Scottish links now that illness prevents him from swinging a club, said:

"This course has been made impossible for the real long hitters. With all that massive rough crowding in on the narrow fairways, the penalties for being off target are too severe."

It was precisely this consideration that made such stars as Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Doug Sanders, and Tony Lema concentrate on power irons instead of driving off the tees in Wednesday's first round.

Nelson, non-playing captain of the American Ryder Cup team which beat the British last year at Birkdale, England, said:

"Accuracy with the first shot must pay off here at Muirfield. Anything else is trouble."

Thinking the same way, Nicklaus used plenty of long irons to shoot a first-round one-under-par 70 over the 6,887-yard links beside the Firth of Forth.

With 54 holes to go he shares the lead with British Ryder Cupper Jimmy Hitchcock, and the betting makes the Columbus, Ohio, master a solid favorite.

Girls Tennis Test In Quarterfinals

DAYTON, O. (AP) — Quarterfinal matches were set for today in the Western Girls Tennis Tournament with most of the attention focused on Plums Bartkovic, 11-year-old sister of 18-year-old champion Peaches Bartkovic.

Plums moved into the spotlight Wednesday with a surprise defeat of Jane Kincaid, Huntington, W. Va., 3-6, 6-3, and 6-0 in the girls' 16 division.

In other matches: Girls 18 — Gloria Novitsky, Hamtramck, Mich., defeated Cindy Snyder, Middletown, Ohio, 1-6, 6-3, and 6-1. Girls 16 — Top seeded Connie Capozzi, Middletown, defeated Cindy Fremion, Fort Wayne, Ind., 6-2 and 6-1; third-seeded Jane Lawson, Middletown, beat Nancy Friesleben, Chicago 6-0, 6-0.

Lema, of San Leandro, Calif. and Sanders of Ojai Calif. were one shot behind with par 71s along with South Africa's Harold Henning and Scotland's amateur champion, Ronnie Shade.

Among seven tied at 72 were Gary Player, the South African star who won the Open here at Muirfield seven years ago, and Ken Nagle of Australia.

Arnold Palmer, of Latrobe, Pa., still a hot tip to win the British title for the third time lay in wait at 73 along with 15 others including defending champion Peter Thomson of Australia, Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., Dick Sikes of Springdale, Ark. and Dave Marr of Litchfield Park, Ariz.

After today's second round the field will be cut to the low 55 and ties.

Birdie Awed By Fielding Of Opponent

CLEVELAND (AP) — "A play that couldn't be made!"

That was the awed reaction of Cleveland Manager Birdie Tebbetts after Chico Salmon was cut down at the plate by Tony Oliva's great throw in the ninth inning which ended a Cleveland rally and preserved the Minnesota Twins' 4-3 victory over the Indians Wednesday night.

It was the fourth straight Minnesota victory here and the Indians' fifth straight loss—their longest losing string of the season.

Tebbetts' reaction reflected the amazement and admiration in the Indians' dressing room after Oliva's fine play.

"Nobody is going to pick up a wet baseball like that and throw my fastest runner out at the plate," said Tebbetts.

"Nobody, that is, but Tony Oliva. He has all the ingredients a great baseball player needs—arm, legs, fielding ability power and instincts."

"I guess he must have used all of them against us tonight."

'Sad Sam' Jones Dies At Age 73

WOODSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Sad Sam Jones, who shared with Cy Young the record for longevity among major league baseball pitchers of all time, is dead.

Jones, 73, was stricken here Wednesday at his home where he had lived since leaving baseball for good after a brief stint as a minor league relief hurler in 1947.

The cause of death was not disclosed.

Jones would have been 74 in 20 more days, and also would have marked his golden anniversary with his wife, Edyth, the same day.

"Sad Sam" entered the major leagues with Cleveland of the American League in 1914 and pitched through the 1935 season, chalking up 22 consecutive years.

Only he and the great Young, of Newcomerstown, Ohio, pitched that many years consecutively in the majors. All Jones' pitching was in the American League.

Jones, in addition to Cleveland, pitched for New York, St. Louis, Washington, Chicago and Boston.

He had a lifetime record in the majors of 228-216, including 36 shutouts and a no-hitter on Sept. 4, 1923, defeating the old Philadelphia Athletics 2-0.

Mel Stottlenyre of New York, Jim Hunter of Kansas City and Pete Richert of Washington.

All of Mele's selections were starters, while Alston picked two relief experts—McCool (4-4) and Raymond (5-2).

Perry, who is 121, has the best record among the starting pitchers. Marichal (13-4) has an All-Star earned run average of 1.13 as the winner in 1962 and 1964. He gave up only one hit in three innings after starting last year's game.

The victory in that game went to Koufax (15-3), who worked only one inning. Gibson (11-8) worked the last two innings of the game and saved the National League's one-run margin.

Veale (10-5), Koufax and McCool are lefthanders. The other five hurlers are right-handed.

The eight starting infielders and outfielders for both teams have already been selected by vote of the players, but the two managers still have to name nine more men to their squads.

Nelson, non-playing captain of the American Ryder Cup team which beat the British last year at Birkdale, England, said:

"Accuracy with the first shot must pay off here at Muirfield. Anything else is trouble."

Thinking the same way, Nicklaus used plenty of long irons to shoot a first-round one-under-par 70 over the 6,887-yard links beside the Firth of Forth.

With 54 holes to go he shares the lead with British Ryder Cupper Jimmy Hitchen, and the betting makes the Columbus, Ohio, master a solid favorite.

Rain Postpones Two Contests

Two games in the Circleville Youth Baseball Program were washed out last night. They have been rescheduled by Kelly Boyer, program supervisor.

Blue Ribbon Dairy and Circleville Oil of the Little League Minors will meet tonight on Little League diamond No. 2 at the Fairgrounds.

In the major side of the Little League, Bingmans and Coca-Cola will battle Friday on Little League diamond No. 2 at the Fairgrounds.

ite to keep ahead.

Lema, of San Leandro, Calif. and Sanders of Ojai Calif. were one shot behind with par 71s along with South Africa's Harold Henning and Scotland's amateur champion, Ronnie Shade.

Among seven tied at 72 were Gary Player, the South African star who won the Open here at Muirfield seven years ago, and Ken Nagle of Australia.

Arnold Palmer, of Latrobe, Pa., still a hot tip to win the British title for the third time lay in wait at 73 along with 15 others including defending champion Peter Thomson of Australia, Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., Dick Sikes of Springdale, Ark. and Dave Marr of Litchfield Park, Ariz.

After today's second round the field will be cut to the low 55 and ties.

Birdie Awed By Fielding Of Opponent

CLEVELAND (AP) — "A play that couldn't be made!"

That was the awed reaction of Cleveland Manager Birdie Tebbetts after Chico Salmon was cut down at the plate by Tony Oliva's great throw in the ninth inning which ended a Cleveland rally and preserved the Minnesota Twins' 4-3 victory over the Indians Wednesday night.

It was the fourth straight Minnesota victory here and the Indians' fifth straight loss—their longest losing string of the season.

Tebbetts' reaction reflected the amazement and admiration in the Indians' dressing room after Oliva's fine play.

"Nobody is going to pick up a wet baseball like that and throw my fastest runner out at the plate," said Tebbetts.

"Nobody, that is, but Tony Oliva. He has all the ingredients a great baseball player needs—arm, legs, fielding ability power and instincts."

"I guess he must have used all of them against us tonight."

Cincy Stadium Cost: $34 Million

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's proposed new sports stadium will cost $34.4 million and is scheduled to be ready by Aug. 15, 1968, the Cincinnati Enquirer reported today.

Cincinnati hopes to use the Riverfront stadium as bait for a professional football franchise and the plans provide for stadium seating 55,000 for football and 48,000 for baseball. The Cincinnati Reds would share the stadium with the football team.

The stadium with a diameter of about 700 feet and stand eight to ten stories high.

Cook Posts 9-5 Decision Over Archer's

Cook Insurance moved into a knot for second place in the Mosquito League Wednesday by dumping Archers 9-5.

The Insuranceemen and Ankrum Lumber are deadlocked at 3-2 behind Hill and K of C, both 5-0.

The Cook nine jumped to an early lead, scoring two in the first. After four the score stood, 6-1, with Cooks in front. Archer's came through with two in the fifth and sixth.

Terry Brown went the distance for the winners. He fanned 15 and allowed only six hits in his six-frame tenure.

Mark Hoffman suffered the mound loss. He allowed only six hits and struck out 15.

Jim Arledge led the offense for Cook's. He smacked two bingles and scored four times in four at bats. Rodney Wolfe powered a triple and scored twice for the winners. Other hits were by Terry Brown, Rickey Thompson and Dan Stumbo.

John Radcliff tagged two hits and scored twice for the losers. Charles Wolfe and Hoffman collected the other safeties.

Haulers Drop Du Pont, 23-3

Larry's Refuse Haulers downed Du Pont, 23-3, in a Girls Softball League game.

Alice Pittman provided the big punch for Larry's as she cracked three homers. Beth Moore and Bettie Gulick added single homers.

Michele Hulse tagged a triple for the winners and Nancy Hines and Moore collected two doubles. Gloria Smith, Gulick and Jenny Woodward had two baggers.

For Du Pont Thomas banged a triple and Sherry Bumgarner hit a pair of doubles. C. u. p. p. tagged a lone double.

Springfield Pacer Stages Scioto Upset

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Spangler Creed, owned by Walter Wyen of Springfield, upset pre-race favorite Red Tweed to win the featured $1,200 mile race in 2:04 at Scioto Downs Wednesday night.

Driven by Marc Ferguson, the 4-year-old gelding took the lead at the first quarter pole and held off Red Tweed's challenge at the stretch to win by a neck.

NL Star Pitchers Are Experienced

CINCINNATI (AP) — Most of the pitchers picked for the National League in next week's All-Star Game have had some experience in All-Star competition.

Manager Walt Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers said Wednesday his choices were Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers, Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry of San Francisco, Jim Bunning of Philadelphia, Bob Gibson of St. Louis, Claude Raymond of Houston, Billy McCool of Cincinnati and Bob Veale of Pittsburgh.

Only Perry, McCool and Raymond have never before been named to an All-Star squad. Bunning (9-4) has been picked seven times—including twice in the American League—and Koufax has been named to the squad six times.

The contest with the American League All-Stars in St. Louis' new Busch Stadium next Tuesday will be Marichal's fifth All-Star Game. Gibson has been named three times and Veale was first selected last year, but did not see any action.

'Sad Sam' Jones Dies At Age 73

WOODSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Sad Sam Jones, who shared with Cy Young the record for longevity among major league baseball pitchers of all time, is dead.

Jones, 73, was stricken here Wednesday at his home where he had lived since leaving baseball for good after a brief stint as a minor league relief hurler in 1947.

The cause of death was not disclosed. Jones would have been 74 in 20 more days, and also would have marked his golden anniversary with his wife, Edyth, the same day.

"Sad Sam" entered the major leagues with Cleveland of the American League in 1914 and pitched through the 1935 season, chalking up 22 consecutive years.

Only he and the great Young, of Newcomertown, Ohio pitched that many years consecutively in the majors. All Jones' pitching was in the American League.

Jones, in addition to Cleveland, pitched for New York, St. Louis, Washington, Chicago and Boston.

He had a lifetime record in the majors of 228-216, including 36 shutouts and a no-hitter on Sept. 4, 1923, defeating the old Philadelphia Athletics 2-0.

8 Pacers Set For Challenge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Scioto Downs' $9,000 Challenge Stakes set for Friday night is to include eight of the nation's fastest 3-year-old pacers.

Leading the field will be True Duane, owned by Richard Oldfield of Sylvania, Ohio.

Other entrants are Doodley Du, owned by Jim Michaels of Bucyrus; Chris Time, owned by C. & M. Stables of Archbold; Kim's Dream, owned by Walter Rogers and Orville Mickle, and Elma L, owned by Elma Baker, both of Washington Court House; Bank Time, trained and driven by Gene Riegle of Greenville; All Time, owned by Elbridge Moxley of Medina, and Golden Future, owned by a Cedar Knolls, N. J., stable.

Championship Trotter Is Hit by Sunstroke

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—Pluvier III, Sweden's defending champion for Saturday's $100,000 Roosevelt International Trot, was kept in his stall today with ice packs around his head and all four feet in ice-packed tubs. A veterinarian said the horse had suffered a sunstroke Wednesday and canceled his scheduled workout today.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

Mel Stottlenyre of New York, Jim Hunter of Kansas City and Pete Richert of Washington.

All of Mele's selections were starters, while Alston picked two relief experts—McCool (4-4) and Raymond (5-2).

Perry, who is 121, has the best record among the starting pitchers. Marichal (13-4) has an All-Star earned run average of 1.13 as the winner in 1962 and 1964. He gave up only one hit in three innings after starting last year's game.

The victory in that game went to Koufax (15-3), who worked only one inning. Gibson (11-8) worked the last two innings of the game and saved the National League's one-run margin.

Veale (10-5), Koufax and McCool are lefthanders. The other five hurlers are right-handed.

The eight starting infielders and outfielders for both teams have already been selected by vote of the players, but the two managers still have to name nine more men to their squads.

Views on Television - Radio

By RUDD WEATHERWAX (For CYNTHIA LOWRY)

EDITOR'S NOTE - Rudd Weatherwax is the most famous dog - trainer in Hollywood - probably the world - and the owner of "Lassie" and the other collies who help out in scenes too dangerous for the valuable star to play in.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Shortly before Lassie and I were to leave on a three-week location in the spring, a representative of the airline that was to take us to Louisiana on the first leg of the trip called me. She wanted to know how Lassie would like to have her steak cooked for our in-flight meal.

It didn't surprise me a bit. That's typical of the attention Lassie has received over the years. As for the airlines, they seem to be happy to welcome her aboard. Hotels often compete with each other for the privilege of housing Lassie. I've even had offers of a suite for Lassie and me on the house - if I'd let them publicize the fact that Lassie was their guest.

I always buy tickets for two seats - one for me and one for Lassie - but she never uses hers. She prefers sleeping on the floor at my feet, in a front seat where there's room out of the aisle.

Lassie and I do a lot of traveling in a year's time - sometimes as much as 100,000 miles. I like to make personal appearances so that Lassie's fans can get a change to see her in person.

So far we've visited 48 of the 50 states. We've missed Alaska and Hawaii. We've never gone beyond the borders of the United States. Animal quarantine regulations in foreign countries are too strict, so we've always skipped them.

Airlines require that their passenger lists contain the full name, or at least the first and last name, of everyone on every flight. Most dog owners never give their pets more than just a single name, but it didn't take much thought to give Lassie a last name to make her acceptable to the airlines.

On the passenger list she is listed Lassie Weatherwax. Why not?

Once, on a short flight from Los Angeles while Lassie and I were heading for a personal appearance, the plane's captain announced over the loudspeaker that there were two important Hollywood personalities aboard. First he named a well-known film star, and the announcement caused a mild ripple throughout the cabin. Then he noted that Lassie was also on the plane. It seemed to me that everyone in the cabin stood up in excitement trying to find Lassie. Lassie was asleep and never even heard the announcement.

I learned a lesson late last year I'll never forget - nor repeat. I took a tour of Europe during a break in our filming schedule, and for the first time I left Lassie at home. As the days passed I got more and more restless. Then suddenly I realized what my trouble was; I was lonesome for Lassie. I cut my trip short by several weeks and hurried back home.

I'll never leave her again.

Haiphong Oil Storage Depot Is Bombed Again

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Navy planes today bombed the oil storage depot in the Haiphong dock area two miles northeast of the heart of the city for the second time, the U.S. military command announced.

The Haiphong depot, through which 95 per cent of North Viet Nam's petroleum supplies move, was first bombed on June 29 along with another major depot three miles from the heart of Hanoi. The attacks set off a worldwide debate.

A U.S. spokesman said A4 Skyhawks from the aircraft carrier Hancock struck the fuel installation at 1 p.m. and that pilots reported "all bombs on target."

The spokesman said one Skyhawk was shot down by antiaircraft fire but the pilot was rescued.

Pilots reported smoke from the depot rose 20,000 feet and a fireball erupted from a secondary explosion, the spokesman said.

He said pilots saw no ships at the piers near the oil depot but that there were three ships in the outer harbor. The ships apparently were not attacked.

Earlier the U.S. command announced American planes few a record 113 missions against North Viet Nam Wednesday and eluded four surface-to-air missiles, but two of the raiders were shot down, apparently by conventional ground fire. The three pilots were listed as missing.

The U.S. command again reported no significant ground action by American forces. But the South Vietnamese army announced its third major military success in two days, the destruction of a big Viet Cong medical and arms depot in the Mekong Delta and the killing of 155 of the enemy in a day-long battle Wednesday.

Before the June 29 raid, the Haiphong oil storage complex had a capacity of 476,000 barrels of oil stored in 38 storage tanks, 16 warehouses and an open storage area. In the raid last week 46 Navy planes dropped 19 tons of bombs and five-inch uni-rockets on the depot and reconnaissance pilots the next day reported tremendous devastation.

Oil depots also were among the American raiders' targets Wednesday. They attacked one storage area 36 miles north of Hanoi, a fuel tank plant 31 miles north of the capital and an oil storage area 31 miles northeast of Hanoi.

They also struck at a missile site 55 miles northwest of Hanoi as well as at bridges, roads, trucks and rail lines.

One of the planes lost Wednesday was an F105F, a late-model, two-seat version of the single-seat F105 Thunderchief. It was the first F105F lost in the Viet Nam war. A spokesman said it was on a "pathfinder mission" for a flight of Thunderchiefs but he would not elaborate.

100-Voice Choir Set For Luci

WASHINGTON (AP) — A choir of 100 men and boys will sing at the wedding of Luci Johnson and Patrick J. Nagent.

The White House announced today that the choral music for the ceremony will be provided by the combined men's and boys' choirs of two Baltimore Roman Catholic churches — the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen and the Church of the Immaculate Heart of Mary.

Robert F. Twynham, director of the cathedral choir, will compose music for parts of the nuptial Mass and will play the organ at the wedding. The combined choirs will be under the direction of Norman Sydnor, director of the church choir.

About 700 guests are expected for the marriage of the daughter of the President and Mrs. Johnson at noon Aug. 6 in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception here.

The White House said 400 invitations embossed with the presidential coat of arms will be mailed Friday to about 799 personal friends and relatives of the young couple and the Johnson and Nugent families. Many of the invitations will go to couples. Those invited to the ceremony also will be invited to the White House reception which will follow.

News of World in Brief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state's 88 counties paid nearly $240 million in sales tax revenue in the 1965-66 fiscal year just ended, an increase of $22 million over that collected in the previous fiscal year, State Treasurer John D. Herbert reported today.

The treasurer said that revenues from both sales and use taxes amounted to $355 million for the fiscal year for an increase of $30 million over that collected in the previous period.

The highway use tax (axle mile tax) revenues of near $25 million also show an increase of $2 million over the previous fiscal year.

LONDON, Ohio (AP)—State Highway patrolmen captured two escapees from a West Virginia prison work detail near West Jefferson in Madison County today.

The patrol identified the two as Thomas Riffe, 21, and Willard Hughes, 24, who escaped from a Huttonsville Medium Security Prison work detail at Hopemont State Hospital near Terra Alta, W. Va., last Friday.

The two, who had been serving one to 10 year sentences for break-in and entering, were apprehended as they tried to hitchhike along U.S. 40 west of West Jefferson.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Robbins & Myers Manufacturing Co. here announced plans today to expand its motor production facilities to include a new plant at Gallipolis and several projects here.

A 30,000-square-foot building will be constructed west of Gallipolis a short distance off U.S. 35 and will be devoted to producing electric motors and components. The expansion in Springfield includes a 20,000-square-foot steel warehouse and two additions totaling 31,000 square feet at its Lagonda Avenue plant.

No figure as to the probable employment at Gallipolis was announced.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lag in Army enlistments prompted the Defense Department to boost draft calls today for July and August.

The Pentagon announced it was increasing the July call by 2,000 men to a new total of 28,500, and the August quota by 4,000 to a new figure of 36,600.

At the same time, the Defense Department asked Selective Service to produce 31,300 men in September.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Photographs taken by the Gemini 9 astronauts during their three-day flight last month have given scientists new clues about one of nature's great puzzles — the night-time "airglow."

The U.S. Naval Research Laboratory reported this in releasing the photographs of the blanket of dimly illuminated air which surrounds the earth at an altitude of 45 to 60 miles. Energy for the illumination comes from ultraviolet rays of the sun which are absorbed by atoms of various chemicals in the atmosphere during the day.

The astronauts, Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan used a specially modified camera in snapping the photographs. Scientists said the pictures gave new evidence of "global variations in altitude and density of the airglow layer."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department officially has declared the coin storage at an end.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Robert A. Wallace said sufficient inventories of coins are now available — 3.5 billion pieces as of June 17 — to permit a return to more normal minting operations.

The mint was placed on a round-the-clock schedule when the coin shortage intensified. At one point in the crash program, a stamping press was taken out of a museum to aid production.

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — After five years of intermittent negotiations, the United States and South Korea agreed today on a treaty governing the status of the 50,000 U.S. servicemen stationed in Korea.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Foreign Minister Lee Tong-Won will sign the treaty in Seoul Saturday. The last stumbling block was removed Wednesday when the United States agreed to give Korea primary jurisdiction over major criminal offenses committed by U.S. servicemen while off duty.

GENEVA (AP) — The United States says it will sign the international convention on the elimination of all forms of racial discrimination.

Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, told the U.N. Economic and Social Council Wednesday he would sign the convention in a ceremony in New York later this month. The convention was approved by the U.N. General Assembly last December and has been signed by 20 nations.

POSADAS, Argentina (AP) — Missing Cuban leader Ernesto (Che) Guevara was reported seen last month at Selvatic, in Misiones Province, northern Argentina, a police official said today.

Capt. Mario Oscar Davico, assistant provincial police chief, told newsmen he has "evidence" that Guevara apparently was in Misiones in June. He spent some days in the area meeting with local Communist leaders and then disappeared again, Davico said without giving any details.

Misiones Province is at Argentina's northern tip, on the border with Brazil and Paraguay.

Previous reports placing Guevara in various Latin-American countries have not been confirmed.

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A movement to build a memorial in Poland to Pope John XIII has been started by a pro-government Catholic organization, the government-owned newspaper Zycie Warszawy — Warsaw life — reported today.

The report said the monument would be erected in Wroclaw, the former German city of Breslau.

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — The last Turkish army company to serve with the United Nations command in Korea left for home today. It was replaced by 16-man liaison groups.

Poison Spray Descends on Town of 800

ARGYLE, Minn. (AP) — Between 300 to 350 persons, mostly youngsters, were evacuated from this northwestern Minnesota community late Wednesday night after it was discovered the town was accidentally sprayed with a poisonous chemical, authorities said.

Chief of Police Dennis Rousseau said the community of 800 was being sprayed from a light plane to combat mosquitoes when it was discovered that the wrong chemical was being used. He said the plane made three passes over the town before the mixup in chemicals was discovered.

Dr. E.E. Pumala of Warren, acting Marshall County medical officer, said the chemical mistakenly used was parathion, which he described as "quite a lethal poison."

Parathion is used as an insecticide in farming areas.

There were no immediate effects from the poisonous chemical, he said, but an emergency supply of atrophine, an antidote, was being flown from Minneapolis as a precaution.

Residents were advised to spray water on grass, shrubbery and trees and to scrub exposed clothing.

Haiphong Oil Storage Depot Is Bombed Again

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Navy planes today bombed the oil storage depot in the Haiphong dock area two miles northeast of the heart of the city for the second time, the U.S. military command announced.

The Haiphong depot, through which 95 per cent of North Viet Nam's petroleum supplies move, was first bombed on June 29 along with another major depot three miles from the heart of Hanoi. The attacks set off a worldwide debate.

A U.S. spokesman said A4 Skyhawks from the aircraft carrier Hancock struck the fuel installation at 1 p.m. and that pilots reported "all bombs on target."

The spokesman said one Skyhawk was shot down by anti-aircraft fire but the pilot was rescued.

Pilots reported smoke from the depot rose 20,000 feet and a fireball erupted from a secondary explosion, the spokesman said.

He said pilots saw no ships at the piers near the oil depot but that there were three ships in the outer harbor. The ships apparently were not attacked.

Earlier the U.S. command announced American planes few a record 113 missions against North Viet Nam Wednesday and eluded four surface-to-air missiles, but two of the raiders were shot down, apparently by conventional ground fire. The three pilots were listed as missing.

The U.S. command again reported no significant ground action by American forces. But the South Vietnamese army announced its third major military success in two days, the destruction of a big Viet Cong medical and arms depot in the Mekong Delta and the killing of 155 of the enemy in a day-long battle Wednesday.

Before the June 29 raid, the Haiphong oil storage complex had a capacity of 476,000 barrels of oil stored in 38 storage tanks, 16 warehouses and an open storage area. In the raid last week 46 Navy planes dropped 19 tons of bombs and five-inch uni-rockets on the depot and reconnaissance pilots the next day reported tremendous devastation.

Oil depots also were among the American raiders' targets Wednesday. They attacked one storage area 36 miles north of Hanoi, a fuel tank plant 31 miles north of the capital and an oil storage area 31 miles northeast of Hanoi.

They also struck at a missile site 55 miles northwest of Hanoi as well as at bridges, roads, trucks and rail lines.

One of the planes lost Wednesday was an F105F, a late-model, two-seat version of the single-seat F105 Thunderchief. It was the first F105F lost in the Viet Nam war. A spokesman said it was on a "pathfinder mission" for a flight of Thunderchiefs but he would not elaborate.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A choir of 100 men and boys will sing at the wedding of Luci Johnson and Patrick J. Nugent.

The White House announced today that the choral music for the ceremony will be provided by the combined men's and boys' choirs of two Baltimore Roman Catholic churches — the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen and the Church of the Immaculate Heart of Mary.

Robert F. Twynham, director of the cathedral choir, will compose music for parts of the nuptial Mass and will play the organ at the wedding. The combined choirs will be under the direction of Norman Sydnor, director of the church choir.

About 700 guests are expected for the marriage of the daughter of the President and Mrs. Johnson at noon Aug. 6 in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception here.

The White House said 400 invitations embossed with the presidential coat of arms will be mailed Friday to about 799 personal friends and relatives of the young couple and the Johnson and Nugent families. Many of the invitations will go to couples. Those invited to the ceremony also will be invited to the White House reception which will follow.

News of World in Brief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state's 88 counties paid nearly $240 million in sales tax revenue in the 1965-66 fiscal year just ended, an increase of $22 million over that collected in the previous fiscal year, State Treasurer John D. Herbert reported today.

The treasurer said that revenues from both sales and use taxes amounted to $355 million for the fiscal year for an increase of $30 million over that collected in the previous period.

The highway use tax (axle mile tax) revenues of near $25 million also show an increase of $2 million over the previous fiscal year.

LONDON, Ohio (AP)—State Highway patrolmen captured two escapees from a West Virginia prison work detail near West Jefferson in Madison County today.

The patrol identified the two as Thomas Riffee, 21, and Willard Hughes, 24, who escaped from a Huttonsville Medium Security Prison work detail at Hopemont State Hospital near Terra Alta, W. Va., last Friday.

The two, who had been serving one to 10 year sentences for breakin gand entering, were apprehended as they tried to hitchhike along U.S. 40 west of West Jefferson.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Robbins & Myers Manufacturing Co. here announced plans today to expand its motor production facilities to include a new plant at Gallipolis and several projects here.

A 30,000-square-foot building will be constructed west of Gallipolis a short distance off U.S. 35 and will be devoted to producing electric motors and components. The expansion in Springfield includes a 20,000-square-foot steel warehouse and two additions totaling 31,000 square feet at its Lagonda Avenue plant.

No figure as to the probable employment at Gallipolis was announced.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lag in Army enlistments prompted the Defense Department to boost draft calls today for July and August.

The Pentagon announced it was increasing the July call by 2,000 men to a new total of 28,500, and the August quota by 4,000 to a new figure of 36,600.

At the same time, the Defense Department asked Selective Service to produce 31,300 men in September.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Photographs taken by the Gemini 9 astronauts during their three-day flight last month have given scientists new clues about one of nature's great puzzles — the night-time "airglow."

The U.S. Naval Research Laboratory reported this in releasing the photographs of the blanket of dimly illuminated air which surrounds the earth at an altitude of 45 to 60 miles. Energy for the illumination comes from ultraviolet rays of the sun which are absorbed by atoms of various chemicals in the atmosphere during the day.

The astronauts, Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan used a specially modified camera in snapping the photographs. Scientists said the pictures gave new evidence of "global variations in altitude and density of the airglow layer."
